COULD DO IT IN 4½ DAYS

New York, July 23.
Harold Gatty, who was Wiley Post's companion on the world flight of 1931 when they set the record of 8 days, 15 hours, just broken by Post, was the first to greet the ex-airmail pilot's hand when he landed in New York.

Wiley Post brought his machine down to a perfect landing.

As the machine came to a stop on the great aerodrome, Post rose in his seat, waved once to the cheering crowd of over fifty thousand and then sank back exhausted.

He was helped from his plane and rushed to the nearest hotel, where he quickly revived.

Although he went round in just over seven days, Post declared that given good weather throughout and no mishaps, he could do the trip in four and a half days without excessive strain.

General Balbo, the Italian airman, wanted to be among the crowd of welcomers, but he arrived late owing to the traffic congestion.—Reuter.

FAINTS WITH PERRY AT MATCH POINT

Dramatic Climax To Thrilling Five-Set Battle in Zone Final

BRITAIN'S DAVIS CUP TRIUMPH

AUSTIN AND PERRY ON TOP IN KEEN GAMES

Thousands of frenzied tennis fans, who through four sets and thirteen games had cheered the wonderful rallies, and gaped in amazement at the skill and artistry of the players, were stunned into silence when Ellsworth Vines, facing defeat at the hands of F. J. Perry in the last match of the Davis Cup tie between Britain and America yesterday, suddenly collapsed after serving two double faults and was carried from the court in a fainting condition.

It was the climax to the most thrilling exhibition of tennis ever seen at the Stade Roland Garros. It gave Britain her fourth victory of the series and left her worthy challengers to France, holders of the Davis Cup.

Austin clinched the issue for Britain in the first match of the third day's play, when he beat Wilmer Allison in four sets. Austin indulged in artistic tennis to achieve the performance.

But all the thrills were left for the Perry-Vines encounter. Perry, with recollections of Vines's succession of victories against him in America last year, was obviously tuned up for the occasion, and it was generally felt that with his fighting spirit aroused, Perry was the most dangerous opponent the American champion could meet.

And so it proved. Here is a thumb-nail sketch of one of the most extraordinary tennis matches in the history of the Davis Cup. Vines, serving with terrific power, won the first set at 6-1.

Perry, a veritable genius in his exploitation of passing drives, countered by winning the second set to love.

TERRIFIC PACE.
The fourth set was a fascinating battle of craft and skill. Vines leading 3-2, fell and injured his ankle. He carried on and actually led 6-5, Perry, displaying more confidence than at any other period, broke through to win at 7-5. Perry, with an energy which astounded the onlookers, set a terrific pace in the fifth set. As the stanza progressed, so the dramatic climax was worked up until the Englishman led 7-9. Vines served. He led 15-love. Perry levelled up to 15-all. The American served two double faults and Perry had match point. Vines served again and then without any warning collapsed on the ground in a dead faint. The gruelling heat and the strain had proved too much for him.

AUSTIN'S VICTORY.
Wilmer Allison was given the task of saving the match for America when he met "Bunny" Austin, conqueror of Vines, in the first match of the day.

But the task proved too much for him and the Englishman, playing perfect tennis—the type of tennis which will be written about in the text books—won the tie for Britain in four sets.

The scores in the Englishman's favour read:

6-2, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4.

Austin was brilliant in his court tactics, and sent over a stream of beautiful drives of varied pace and placement.

DOGGED ALLISON.
He showed a much wider range of strokes than Allison, who, however, played in dogged fashion.

The American hit especially well on the forehand and served very powerfully with disconcerting spin.

the second set, which he won after Austin had led 6-5 and 7-6. Allison's will-power and sheer grit pulled him through, but the effort cost him dearly.

The Englishman regained all his confidence in the succeeding sets and was complete master of the situation.

AUSTIN IRRESISTIBLE.
He won the third set mainly as a result of his snappy close up volleying. His sharply angled net shots left Allison helpless.

The American made a final bid for recovery in the fourth set. Austin took a two-love lead and Allison levelled up at two-all. Austin went away again for a 4-2 advantage, only to be pulled back to four-all. After that, Austin was irresistible and he volleyed his way through the next two games for the set and match.—Reuter.

PERRY v. VINES.
Although the result had already been decided, there was no lack of interest when Vines and Perry took the court for the final game of the series.

The opening exchanges gave some indication of the terrific struggle which was to follow, but no one was prepared for the collapse of Vines just at the moment Perry reached match point in the fifth set.

Perry was leading Vines, 1-6, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5, 7-6 and 40-15 on the latter's service, when the Californian fainted.

A BAD FALL.
Perry was the first to the rescue, pouring water on his opponent.

Vines had a bad fall in the fourth set which appeared to have left him shaken, but he went on without any perceptible difference in his play.

The American failed to respond to immediate treatment and he was carried from the court. He regained consciousness after ten minutes and fully recovered.

INEXORABLE LAW.

The laws provide, however, that when a player receives treatment on the court he is considered to have abandoned the match.

That the incident should have occurred was a thousand pities as Perry, who was superb, showed that he was well able to beat Vines at his best in Paris.

Vines served with smashing shots and drove with terrific power. Nevertheless he was guilty of at least a dozen double faults.

PERRY'S GENIUS.
Perry was a genius in the way he

Reservation On Silver Issue

AN UNDERSTANDING NOT AN AGREEMENT

UNTIL RATIFIED

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By "Telegraph" Copyright, Telegraphic News Service, September 1933. Reprinted, July 21, 8 a.m.)

London, July 23.
The Nine-Power Silver Agreement has been fully completed, except for the signature of Bolivia, whose representatives in London are merely awaiting instructions from their government.

They are certain that the Bolivian Government will give their ready assent to the proposals.

Erroneous reports that the agreement had not actually been signed apparently originated when last-minute minor changes were made in the text phraseology, designating the document as an understanding, rather than an agreement.

These changes required initialing which was completed at midnight when Dr. W. W. Yen, for China, and an Australian representative, affixed their signatures.

AN UNDERSTANDING.

Because the understanding must be ratified by all the governments signing, some of the countries concern have issued a warning that it must not be construed as an agreement until it has been ratified.

A supplementary document, consisting of a contract between Australia, the United States, Canada, Mexico and Peru is now being negotiated, whereby they bind themselves to purchase annually certain fixed quantities, making up the total of $5,000,000 ounces.

FINALITY TO-DAY?

It is expected that this supplementary contract will be signed by Monday, and its text issued for publication.

Meanwhile, it is intimated from Washington that the United States will continue the effort to rehabilitate silver regardless of the Conference results.

Well-informed observers state that the Administration is determined to leave no stone unturned in its efforts to secure wider co-operation than is guaranteed by the Pittman Scheme as modified.—United Press. Per Gold Bar Co.

PLANE PASSING SHOTS

Vines led 3-2 in the fourth set and then stumbled in trying to retrieve a difficult shot. He hurt his ankle but recovered. Actually, he was not hurt at all. But he was too tired to win the set.

MOLLISONS CRASH NEAR END OF JOURNEY

BRILLIANT FLIGHT ENDS

MARRIED FIFTY MILES FROM NEW YORK

New York, July 23.

After the accomplishment of a brilliant feat, the crossing of the Atlantic from East to West, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mollison, the famous British fliers, crashed this evening in Connecticut.

They are the first married couple to have flown the Atlantic in either direction. Mrs. Mollison (Amy Johnson) is the first woman to have flown the Atlantic from East to West.

They were attempting to fly nonstop from Pendine Sands, Wales, to New York, and doubtless would have completed their journey but for the growing darkness.

CRASH LANDING.

Flying up Long Island Sound, they finally decided to make a landing at Bridgeport, only fifty miles from New York, and crashed when so doing.

Only a flash message of the mishap has been received and it is not known definitely how the fliers fared, though it is assumed that the lack of definite information may be regarded as encouraging the belief that neither suffered any serious harm.

SIGHTED OVER NEW FOUNDLAND.

The Mollisons were first sighted after a long journey over the Atlantic, having apparently been kept back by strong headwinds, over Harbour Grace.

At that time there was no definite information that the machine was that of the Mollisons, but both railway and postal officials were confident of their identification. The machine passed over Robinson,

THE LATEST NAZI ORDER

RIGHT TO WEAR A BROWN SHIRT

Berlin, July 23.

A new order has been issued by the Nazi organisation apparently designed to enable them to distinguish easily between genuine Nazis and those who have joined the Party, regardless of their political convictions, in order to avoid trouble.

The order lays down that Brown Shirts may only be worn in future, by persons who joined the Nazi Party before January 30, 1933.

The Government's determination to crush all opposition is emphasised by the passing of the death sentence upon six Communists in Cologne.

They were concerned in street fighting in February last when two Nazis were killed.

Three other Communists were sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude and six others were given long terms of imprisonment. This follows hot upon heels of yesterday's laws.—Reuter.

AT HALIFAX.

Their plane was again sighted over Robertson Bay, Newfoundland, at 5 p.m. British Summer Time, and a message later from Halifax added the information that a machine believed to be the Mollisons, passed over at 6.45 p.m. British Summer Time.

An hour later, 7.45 p.m. B.S.T. they were reported over New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, heading in a direct line for New York.

The next news was of their crash at Bridgeport, Connecticut, when crowds were already beginning to assemble at Roosevelt Field to welcome them in New York.—Reuter.

FENG BLUFF CALLED

CHARHAR HOSTILITIES NOW UNLIKELY

REPORTED READY FOR PEACE

Peking, July 23.

Rather more optimism prevails to-day regarding the situation in Charhar and it is hoped that hostilities between Feng Yu-hsiang and the Government forces will be avoided.

Although only five miles now separate the Government troops from those directed by Feng Yu-hsiang, there has been no skirmishing and no sign of any move on the part of either side which would precipitate hostilities.

Delegates return from Kuling state that the Christian General is now inclined to be reasonable and with the local authorities, he seems to be waiting upon the outcome of the Kuling Conference.

FRIENDS ALIENATED.

There is no question that the revelation that Feng, the Arch-Patriot, has been negotiating with the Japanese has come as a severe blow to his sympathisers in North China, while his evacuation of Dolon, after the bombastic claims connected with its "capture" has disgusted many.

Chinese sources state that Feng Yu-hsiang is now ready to discuss measures for the abolition of his so-called anti-Japanese Army, up on the condition that the measure be re-organised into other arms. He is also desirous of peace negotiations for the settlement of the Charhar trouble.

There seems to be little doubt that the threat of firm measures against Feng is "calling his bluff".—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

YOURSELF
Don't Be Careless of Your Beauty

By Alicia Hart

Carelessness in beauty is too frequent a fault in older women. They forget the necessity of putting their hair in place and powdering their noses ever so often. The need for care in details increases as you get older. Somehow straggly hairs seem more straggly when they are grey. A hat placed carelessly askew on the head looks far worse when that head is not young.

Meticulous grooming runs beauty a close race when women are over 40. Every one knows some one dainty woman whose presence always gives them a little thrill of pleasure—a woman whose coiffure is always perfect, whose skin shows care, whose make-up is subtly perfect and whose clothes have neatness and charm.

Would that more women followed this lead, when the flush of youth is past!

The trouble is that women get to thinking of themselves as "getting on" and make the mistake of believing that it "doesn't matter." Little things are important in direct proportion to your years. Particularly when they are details in appearance.

Turn over a new leaf! When you leave for the office or start your house routine to-morrow, be sure you look just right. Then, sometime before lunch, take a minute off to make sure you still do. Repeat during the afternoon. You'll find your self-respect gets an uplift!

DISCOVERY IN NEW GUINEA
NEW IRRIGATED AND DEVELOPED LAND

A VISION OF LOVELINESS

Sydney, N.S.W. Unseen and unspoiled by white or civilised people, a rich and verdant territory has been discovered in New Guinea that is irrigated, cultivated and developed as well as the intensively worked market gardens in Australia.

Through the area, which at an altitude of 5,000 feet, runs a river broad and deep that is perfectly straight for about 90 miles and then it races across mountains, through deep gorges cut as though they were perfectly engineered railway cuttings.

In this verdant land and beautiful landscape a white man would forfeit his life to cannibals were he to venture unarmed and alone into this tempting paradise.

AERIAL DISCOVERY.

Mr. F. T. O'Dea was the first white man to see this vision of loveliness and home of savagery. In a Holden aeroplane and with four passengers he flew over it while on exploration work. It is across the Bismarck Ranges in a direction a little north of west from the Paris. A smugglers' lair, complete with a narrow gauge railway for the transport of heavy loads of tobacco, has been discovered in a sewer at Halluin, on the Belgian frontier.

The smugglers entered the sewer at Menin, in Belgium, two miles from Halluin, placing the tobacco in trucks, which were wheeled by hand along the railway line. Rubber tyres were fitted to the trucks so that the people living above should not hear any rumble when a train was going by underneath. The tobacco was unloaded at the exit of the sewer on the outskirts of Halluin.

Half a ton of tobacco has been seized by the police, as well as the smugglers' rolling stock.—Reuter.

The land was completely cultivated. As on a modern farm, the plants—taro, yams and other root crops—were perfectly aligned no matter from what angle they were viewed.

AGGRESSIVE
STRONG RESOLUTION
BY I. B. U.

Lucerne. The use of wireless for aggressive propaganda was condemned by the International Broadcasting Union in the last session of its annual conference.

The Union adopted resolutions protesting strongly against the broadcasting of "abusive emissions" which was at present prevalent in various countries. It asked its members to appeal to their governments for legal protection against this practice.

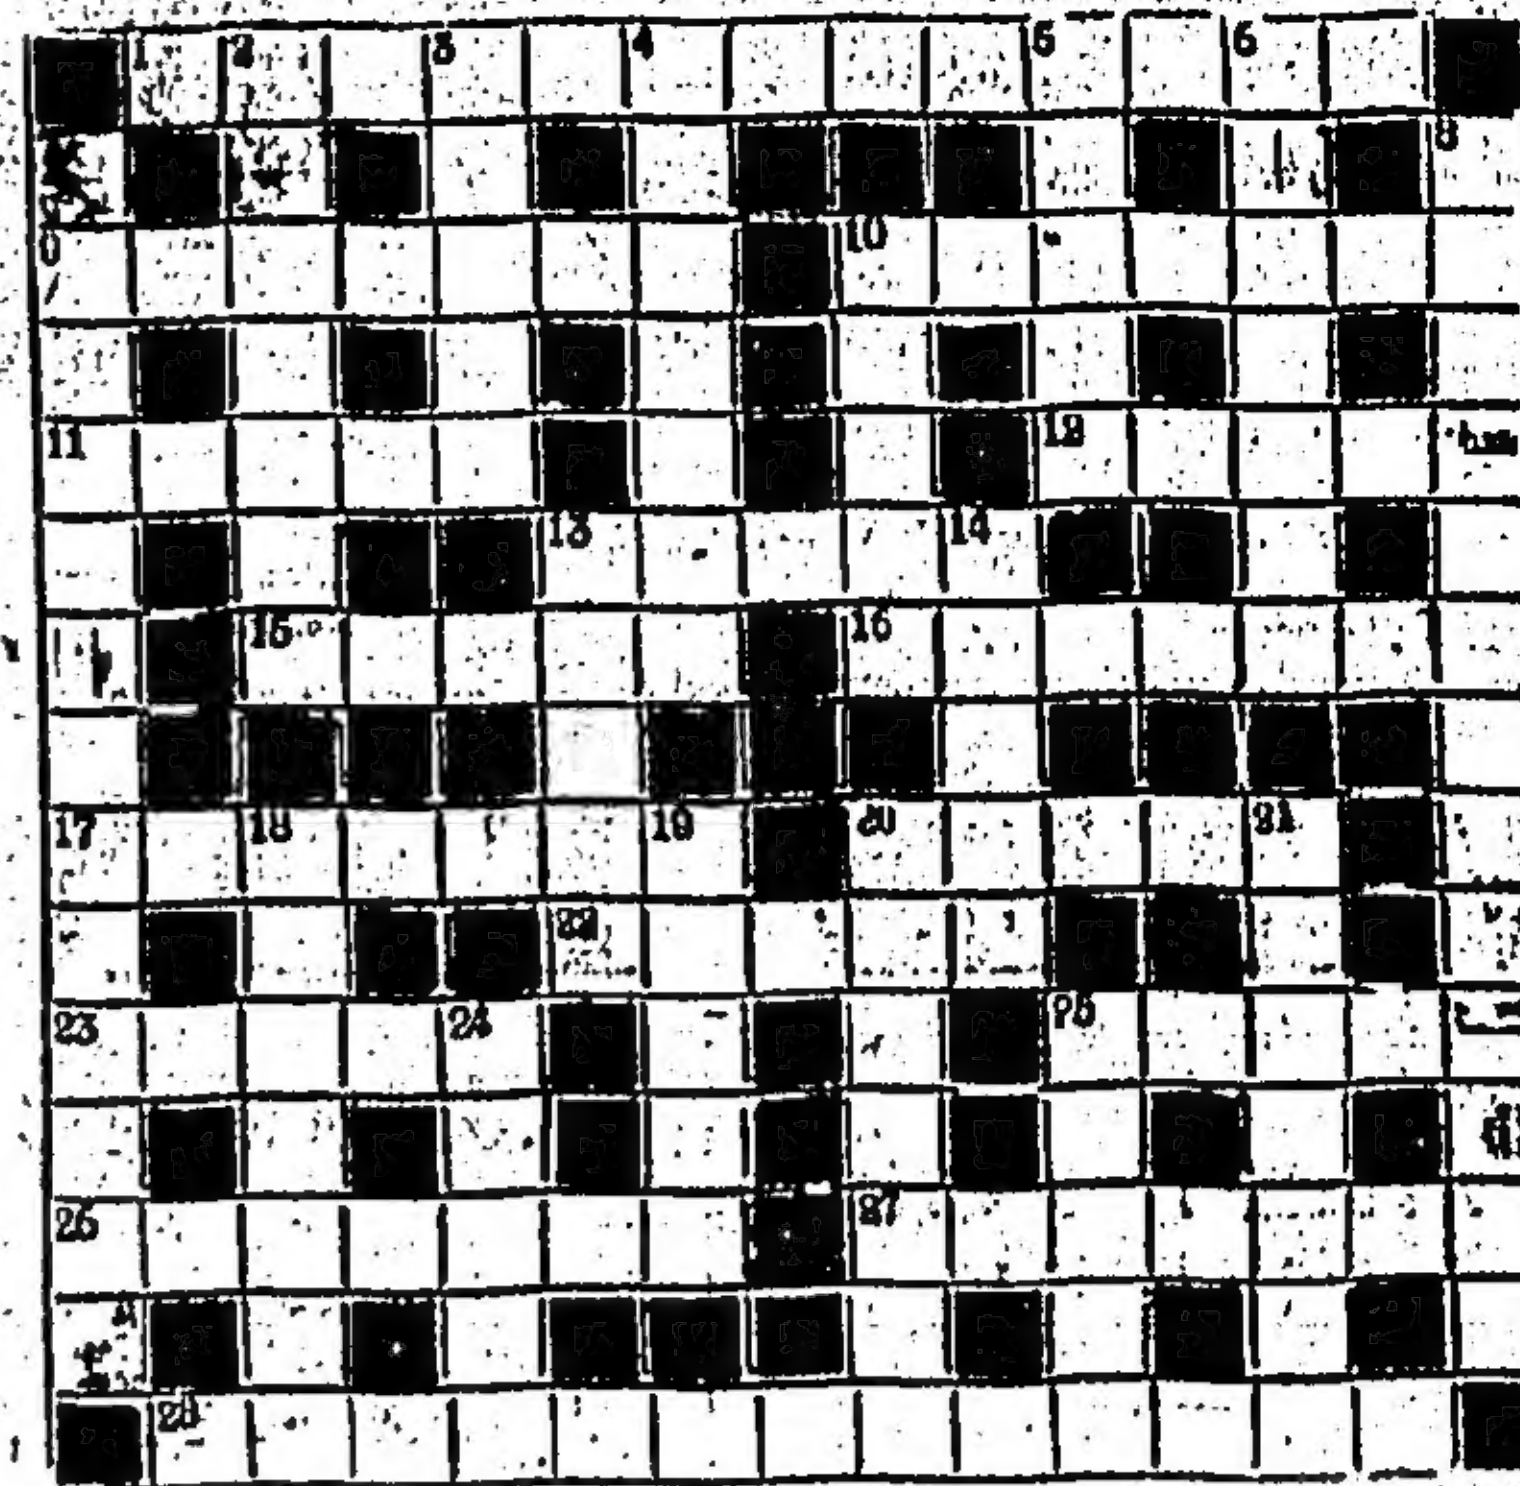

The continued broadcasting of programmes or other communications specially intended for foreign countries, which would give rise to protestations from those countries, was voted an inadmissible action.

Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Carpendale, the President of the Union, commented on the increased number of receiving sets registered in Europe during 1932. Nearly two million new licences had been granted, which constituted an increase of about eight million listeners.

He said that the Council of the Union had decided to lend active cooperation in eliminating "unauthorised listeners."

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XL

The train slowed. Monnie, marshalling her forces and making certain her bags were all in order, felt a curious surge of excitement. She was home! Home at last after the long, ocean voyage, the dash across New York to make the morning train to Belvedere. Arthur Mackenzie had been everything that was kind and thoughtful. Monnie had felt, on leaving him, a pang of compunction. It seemed unfair that she should be able to give him nothing in return. "Write me," he had said, holding her hand, on parting. "If anything goes wrong—if things don't fall out as you expect." And Monnie had promised lightly. Why should anything go wrong now? She and Dan would be reunited. They would be married directly after Christmas, when his uncle's legacy set him free. She had no fears now. All the way seemed to be like an agreeable dream.

No one knew she was coming. She had not wired—she had thought she would surprise them all. It was strange, arriving on the platform with no one to greet her. Strange and exciting, too. Old Marley Brockway who drove the "Rapid Fire Taxi" took her bags, looking at her a bit curiously, she thought.

"Been away, I see. That was old Marley, always. As if you'd be getting off the train otherwise. Monnie said yes."

"Folks know you was comin'?"

She shook her head.

The ancient automobile rattled along Main street. Monnie felt self-conscious, riding alone. How strange to see the town exactly as she had felt it five weeks ago! Nothing had changed. What should she say to her mother—to Kay—about her sudden return? They would think it extremely odd. Well, she was in for that now, for all the explanations. They would be glad to see her and so perhaps would not ask too many questions. After she had satisfied them she would let Dan know she was back. Dan! Every man on the street, walking in her direction, might be Dan!

Old Marley seemed inclined to gossip. Driving cautiously along, he threw comments over his shoulder.

"Big excitement in town last night."

"There was?" Monnie wasn't really listening. She knew Marley and his "big excitements." Probably a dog fight.

"Yes, sir! Accident on the river road. People all bunged up." Marley clucked dolefully.

"Really?" Monnie was thinking of her mother—what she would say to her.

"Took 'em to the hospital," the cabman related with relish. "Hurt bad, I guess."

She listened with her thoughts

far away. Once as the car took a corner cautiously she thought she saw a little group staring at her curiously. It was the usual crowd of ne'er-do-wells who hung around the fire engine house. Monnie shrugged her shoulders. The news of her return would soon be all about town.

"Maybe you know 'em. Fact is, I'm sure you do," old Marley was droning on. "They was—"

Who the victims of the accident were the girl was destined not to know just then, as a milk wagon, drawn by a nervous horse, dashed across the path of the cab and Marley was too upset by the incident to chatter further. In another minute Monnie alighted at her own door.

She tried the knob, found the door locked and used the knocker vigorously. After an instant stops sounded and her mother appeared. Her eyes widened.

"Monnie! What on earth? You're not sick?"

"Never that," Monnie embraced the small figure with vigour. "I'm fine and I've had a wonderful time! But I thought I'd loafed long enough."

"But Miss Annetta?" Mrs. O'Dare's brow wrinkled anxiously. "She found those old friends of hers in London and is going to see lots of them. She didn't mind."

It wasn't many mothers, Monnie reflected, who would ask so few questions as hers. Mrs. O'Dare appeared satisfied with the vague explanation though no doubt she was thinking her own thoughts.

"We've got a pick-up supper," she worried. "Nothing like what I would have had if I'd known you were coming."

The girl laughed joyously. This was getting home—having mother worry about what you ate and how you looked. She had missed it—oh, how she had missed it! The shabby little house, warm and cosy, the deep chairs, the books under the lamp—how familiar and yet how strange it all looked after the "salons" and "cafes" in love with her and seeing her Monnie wondered fleetingly what

Arthur Mackenzie would have thought of her home. Then—she tossed her head!

"Kay will be here soon," Mrs. O'Dare told her. "Mark's working at the Boston store. I told you that when I wrote, didn't I? He runs errands after school. He's saving his money for Christmas."

"And Bill?" Monnie was almost afraid to ask about Bill. Maybe he had gone off and married Angie while she'd been away.

"Bill is like a different person these days," said Monnie's mother. Her face lightened. "He's—Monnie, I must tell you! It's all off between him and Angie."

"Not really?" Monnie was incredulous. The mother nodded.

"Yes, Angie went back to her husband two weeks ago. She's been acting rather queerly lately. When Bill called her she was never in. Do you know, Monnie, I really think she cared about Bill and that she decided this was the best way out for them all? She knows Stan—that's her husband's name—has a vicious temper and that he's make trouble for her. He never wanted to let her go, really, and had threatened Bill. You don't know how relieved I am about it all, although I'm sorry for the poor little thing! Angie really has some fine qualities."

"So that's one more mountain turned into a molehill," Monnie murmured, fluffing her hair before the hall mirror. "How I worried about that situation all summer, thinking Bill's life would be spoiled by such a marriage! You say he's taking it all right?"

"Yes, I think he's really relieved, deep down," the mother explained. "He was infatuated with Angie at first. She is pretty! And then the excitement of knowing she was forbidden fruit, another man's wife, kept up the feeling. You know how Bill is! Stubborn as a mule. He got the idea Angie was being mistreated and that he was her champion. When we accepted her—what else could we do?—the thrill wore off. He wasn't really in love with her and seeing her

Bullock Amok Holds Up Whole Town

CREATES REIGN OF TERROR

Simonstown. All traffic—trains, buses, motor-cars and pedestrians—was held up in Simonstown when a bullock ran amuck and careered in and about the main road for an hour. It created a reign of terror. It chased everyone off the street, tossed a pedestrian 15 feet, charged and damaged a motor-car and chased two European women into the kitchen at Admiralty House. The maddened animal charged every moving object and approaching the station tore down part of the fence before stampeding down the platform, preventing passengers from boarding a train. The train was delayed ten minutes. After injuring another man and a little girl, Petty Officer Frederick Kidd, of H.M.S. Rochester, took a rifle and with a magnificent shot at about 75 yards' range dropped the animal in its tracks, killing it instantly.—Reuter.

DISCOVERY OF PEARLS

PRECIOUS GEM WORTH £600

RICH NORTHERN TERRITORY

Sydney, N.S.W.

Pearls worth about £3,000 were discovered in Northern Territory waters, says the Administrator (Lieutenant-Colonel R.H. Weddell) in his report for the year ended June 30 last, and the most precious gem among them was valued at £600.

In 1931 pearling operations resulted in a shell-take of 225 tons of mother-of-pearl shell, valued at approximately £45,600, the greater portion of which was the better grade. The limited output of shell has resulted in a steady market with prices well advanced, but careful consideration should be given to the possibility of the

MANCHUKUO TAXREVISED CUSTOM DUTIES
NOW IN EFFECT

Changchun, July 22. The revised Manchukuo Customs duties, which were approved by the State Council on Thursday last, were formally promulgated to-day, and will be effective from July 23.

This is the first time since the establishment of Manchukuo that the tariff has been revised, and also the first occasion on which Manchukuo currency has been stipulated as the standard payment for duties.

Reductions have been effected in over fifty lines, the main objective being to promote industrial development, in order to assist constructive enterprises and to lighten the burden of taxation now being borne by the masses.

Duty Free Goods.

Goods now allowed into Manchukuo duty free include agricultural machinery, cotton seed, fodder, paraffin wax and wool.

Duties reduced from 7.5 per cent. to five per cent. include mining machinery, paints, varnishes, polishes and electrical materials and fixtures.

Duties on cotton, textiles and cotton manufactures have not been reduced because they constitute an important source of national revenue.

One notable increase is on leaf tobacco. The 15 per cent. ad valorem duties on motor vehicles and railway and tramway supplies remain unchanged.—Reuter.

SILVER PACT
SIGNEDSALES RESTRICTED FOR FOUR YEAR PERIOD

NEW USES PLANNED

London, July 22. A Nine Power four year Silver Agreement was signed this morning in Senator Pittman's suite at the Marlborough Hotel.

China, Spain, Bolivia, Canada, Mexico, Peru, Australia, India and the United States adhered to the agreement.

The agreement is effective as from January 1, 1934, while the ratifications by the various governments must be deposited in Washington not later than April 1, 1934.

The pact binds the Indian Government not to sell more than 140,000,000 fine ounces of silver over a four year period, with an average annual quota of 35,000,000 fine ounces.

If India sells less than 35,000,000 fine ounces in any year, she will be entitled to make up the difference in succeeding years on condition that the sales in any one year are not to exceed 50,000,000 fine ounces.

Spain agrees not to sell over 5,000,000 fine ounces annually.

China agrees not to sell any silver resulting from demetallised coinage.

Export Prohibition.

Australia, Bolivia, Canada, Mexico, Peru and the United States undertake not to sell any silver and to purchase a total of 35,000,000 fine ounces annually from their own mine production, which they impound in their respective treasuries. They will be allowed to use the silver either in coinage or in currency reserves.

Dr. W. W. Yen, who signed the Agreement on behalf of China, told the United Press that he was "very glad to have achieved this agreement, which China regards as a very important move towards a world improvement."

"China naturally wants stability of the price of silver," Dr. Yen continued. "We feel that this is an important step in that direction."—United Press, Courtesy Gold Bar Co.

DETAILS OF PACT.

Far East Circles In Full Approval.

OFFSETTING SALES.

London, July 23.

It is learned that the Silver Agreement provides for the limitation for four years of the Indian output to 35,000,000 fine ounces annually and Spain's to 5,000,000, and all other producing nations have agreed to buy in a total of 35,000,000 ounces from the mines' production in their territory. Thus the sales of Spain and India will be offset.

The agreement is regarded in Far Eastern circles as being most satisfactory, providing for the stabilisation of silver's position in China while not precluding India from carrying out her policy of selling her surplus on an appropriate scale.

Purpose of Plan.

The Silver Agreement has been entered into by delegates to the World Economic Conference, India, China and Spain as the holders of large stocks or users of silver, and by Australia, Canada, United States, Mexico, and Peru as the principal producers.

The Agreement refers to the resolution unanimously passed by the meeting of sub-Commission Number Two of the Monetary Commission on July 20, with regard to such an agreement. It says that whereas the Governments of India and Spain may desire to sell certain portions of their silver holdings, it would be to their advantage that the countries which are large producers of silver should absorb silver to offset such sales; and whereas it would be to the advantage of the large producing countries that the sale of silver from monetary stocks should be limited and it would be to the advantage of China that the sales from monetary stocks should be offset by purchases, with a view to its effective stabilisation.

It was therefore agreed that the Government of India should not dispose of by sale more than 140,000,000 fine ounces of silver in four years commencing January 1, 1934. Disposals during each calendar year of the said four year term are to be based on the average of 35,000,000 fine ounces a year, but it is understood that if in any year the Government of India should not dispose of 35,000,000 fine ounces the difference between the amount actually disposed of and the 35,000,000 ounces may be added as additional disposals in subsequent years, provided the maximum amount disposed of in any year was limited to 50,000,000 ounces.

Spain agrees not to sell over 5,000,000 fine ounces annually.

China agrees not to sell any silver resulting from demetallised coinage.

Australia, Bolivia, Canada, Mexico, Peru and the United States undertake not to sell any silver and to purchase a total of 35,000,000 fine ounces annually from their own mine production, which they impound in their respective treasuries. They will be allowed to use the silver either in coinage or in currency reserves.

Dr. W. W. Yen, who signed the Agreement on behalf of China, told the United Press that he was "very glad to have achieved this agreement, which China regards as a very important move towards a world improvement."

"China naturally wants stability of the price of silver," Dr. Yen continued. "We feel that this is an important step in that direction."—United Press, Courtesy Gold Bar Co.

THE IRISH FREE STATE

Mediatory efforts in which General Smuts has played an important part promise to bring another attempt at Anglo-Irish rapprochement, ending the destructive economic war of the past twelve months or so. The onus is upon Mr. de Valera. If he continues to be Gandhiesque, suggesting that he has something new to contribute and revealing nothing but stubbornness, further discussion will be a sheer waste of time. The Irish leader has to make up his mind. If he believes Ireland can be made self-sufficing, he must take the plunge and not content himself with half measures. Britain is not likely to take the action he desires and push the Free State into a flowing tide of republicanism. At present, the Free State is making the worst of the situation. It is in the British Commonwealth but not of it. Irishmen can still travel in England without passports, but when they trade there they have to face a higher tariff than any foreigner. They are even cut off by the tariff wall from free commercial intercourse with Northern Ireland. The recent announcement that certain of the emergency tariffs imposed by the de Valera Government against imports from Britain would be made permanent seems to suggest that the belief in self-sufficiency has not died out despite the obvious facts. But is equally likely that it represented another gamble upon a colossal bluff. A policy of economic isolation for the Free State merely means the impoverishment of opportunity, the establishment of small-scale industries behind a tariff wall, thus immensely increasing the cost to the consumer. Old outlets for Ireland's principal products will be permanently closed. The opposite policy means early reconciliation with Britain. While the Free States wavers between these two platforms, there can be no stability. Britain, on her part, can make use of the opportunity which is to be created in Parliament this week to make it perfectly clear that she is not prepared to accept any such isolationist policy.

NOTES OF THE DAY

Feng Yu-hsiang's change of front is satisfactory. It saves unnecessary bloodshed. At no time did he have a reasonable chance of achieving any good in pin-pricking the Japanese and Manchukuo forces on the Jehol side of the Chahar frontier. His troops were ill-equipped, lacked ammunition and supplies for a campaign of any length. Opposition to Japan upon the battlefield is vain glorious today. Vocal support from Canton and from patriots in North China is worse than useless unless it is accompanied by something more tangible. It merely encourages wild escapades. If China must seek revenge she must await the proper day.

LOCAL CURRENCY

The local currency controversy has been lying dormant since the Clegg Commission presented its Report, which is fortunate perhaps for the anti-stabilisation school of thought. Events of the last few months have strongly impressed the need for a stable dollar. Trade conditions are bad enough without the hampering effect of wild exchange fluctuations, brought about by circumstances quite beyond the Colony's control. A semi-panic in the wheat pit in Chicago sends the dollar toppling downwards. An optimistic report of the progress of the Pittman campaign supplies a swift upward trend. And the basic argument of the opponents of stabilisation, that Hongkong cannot afford to take such a step while China retains her present monetary system is entirely stultified by the Canton currency situation.

IN GERMANY TO-DAY

Ruthlessness and naivety are strange companions, but they figure together in the latest edicts of the Hitler Government in Germany. While Herr Hitler himself believes that he has achieved what is called in Berlin "totality," in placing public activities of every kind, from the trade unions to the church, under the control of the Nazis, thus suggesting an easing of coercive methods, Captain Goering announces the death penalty for anyone who manifests the slightest sign of hostility to the Hitler regime. Extenuating circumstances are not to be considered. The individual must entirely subordinate himself and his political convictions to the Nazi State. In its debasement of human liberty, this type of Fascism is as bad as its counterpart in a Communist society. And lest as a result further excesses should be committed by the storm troops, it is allowed to be known that "spies" have joined the Nazis inciting them to ill-treatment. It is fortunate that the edicts and the circulars indicate that an attempt also is to be made to discipline the storm troops.

CLASS WAR

Just as many of Karl Marx's favourite maxims had their origin, unconsciously perhaps, in principles which he publicly denounced, so the bitter-Nazi war upon Marxism in Germany is, in reality, a reflection of his attitude of mind. Essentially, the Marxian doctrine preaches class war, although it contemplates the uprising of the proletariat. But it is still class war when the positions are reversed when the revolt of the proletariat is anticipated, and the proletariat force their will upon the masses.

DAVIS CUP DRAMA

Britons the world over have every reason to be proud of their Davis Cup team's magnificent feat in beating America for the right of challenging France in the final round this week. America had so carefully prepared for the event, that the merit of the achievement is greatly enhanced. It was a dramatic tie. In fact so closely allied has drama become with international tennis meetings, that, aided by the quick reactions of the nervously interested crowds, they invariably provide incidents sufficient to earn them a place in the sporting archives. The 1933 Inter-Zone final between Britain and America contained its full share of such drama. The first day's successes of Austin and Perry only give place in dramatic aspect to the collapse of Ellsworth Vines in the concluding tie of the series, when with the scores at two sets all and Perry leading 7-6 and 40-15 in the fifth set, the American champion faltered. It cost him the match, although there is small doubt that in any case, incidentally, tennis historians have plenty of evidence that the game of 1933 was more dramatic and thrilling than any other in its history.

WHAT THE NEW TRAFFIC ACT WILL MEAN TO THE LONDONER

By The Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison

The London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, has come into operation.

WHAT does the new Act mean to the Londoner? I cannot be certain. What I say must be, to some extent, speculative. I am not going to run the new Board. But in the light of many years' study of London's transport problem and as the man who framed, introduced and "saw through" the Joint Select Committee Bill which (amended in ways I do not like by the present Government) has now become the London Passenger Transport Act, 1933—here goes.

What happens on Saturday is that all the Underground Railways, Buses, Trams and Motor Conches of the 1,700 or so square miles of the London Transport Area (bigger than Greater London) are brought together as one undertaking. They are socialised as a public concern under the London Passenger Transport Board, with Lord Ashfield and Frank Pick at its head. They have been socialised too.

Please give the new concern time to find its feet. It is a pity it starts in a trade slump. Co-ordinated public service is to replace capitalist competition—or what was left of it. It doesn't matter much to the new Board whether you travel by tube, bus, coach or train. Nor does it matter much to the Board or the main line railways whether or not you use the suburban railways, for there is to be a pool between them.

SELLING TRANSPORTATION.

In these circumstances I conceive that through booking and the inter-availability of tickets will be instituted. Things will have to be thought out. Experiments may have to be conducted. But I feel sure the tendency will be for the public to be sold transportation rather than journeys by particular vehicles.

Up to a point, it won't matter to the Board which way you travel—as long as you do travel. Are you one of the great army of London's toilers by hand and by brain that is disgorged at Liverpool-street Station—each morning? Yes?

Well, I am sorry for you. Not used to be one of you myself. Not too bad a service, but dirty, dreary, smoky, crowded, depressing, irritating. You ought not to be sent to work like that. I often thought about you at the Ministry of Transport and talked to the L.N.E. Railway about you.

I believe your good day is coming. Competition has held up the electrification of all those lines. Now it will be possible to electrify.

Sir Ralph Wedgwood has assured us that all the plans are ready for submission to the Joint Committee of the main lines and the Board. And electrification means faster and more frequent services, cleaner stations and trains, more comfort.

So with the L.N.E. Railway suburban services out of King's Cross as far as Welwyn Garden City.

Moreover, electrification makes possible through running between the Underground and the main line railways.

"USE YOUR IMAGINATION . . ."

The Metropolitan line from the Circle to New Cross and New Cross Gate will, I believe, join up with the Southern Electric and not merely drop you on to a nearby platform.

I hope the Central London Tube dead-end at Liverpool-street will go and so achieve through running with the old Great Eastern.

Use your imagination. Think what through running between tube and suburban main lines means.

In time it may mean the death of the London end of the suburban terminals and making the electrified "suburbans" as good as tubes with the daylight let in.

Will the trams go? Maybe—if the case is proved.

They have great value; our trams are good ones; they shift vast numbers. But they can't put you down at the kerb; many women don't like them; they are not mobile; and, in a breakdown, there is a block.

The Act gives freedom, subject to conditions. If the local authorities will consent, to overhead wires, there is a lot to be said on appropriate routes for the trolleys which use electricity produced from British coal. Clean, mobile, easy going. Have a look at them round Hampton Court way.

The tramwayman's interest must be safeguarded.

The important thing is that the general public service and not separate interests (even municipal) must now come first.

THE THAMES HIGHWAY.

And the River. Our River—Father Thames . . .

The Board has powers to run a river service. It is the best body to do it, for it can co-ordinate with all its other services. I hope it may be possible, but we must not rush the Board unfairly. The boats must be motor and not steam. They must be open to the heavens in fine weather and as dry, warm and comfortable as a tube train in bad weather.

I hope they will come off, for I want to see Father Thames take us more to his bosom—without letting us get wet.

The motor coach controversy will be settled in the way I wanted.

The coach will be used on its merits. It will be an express bus and used on routes where the railways cannot deliver the goods.

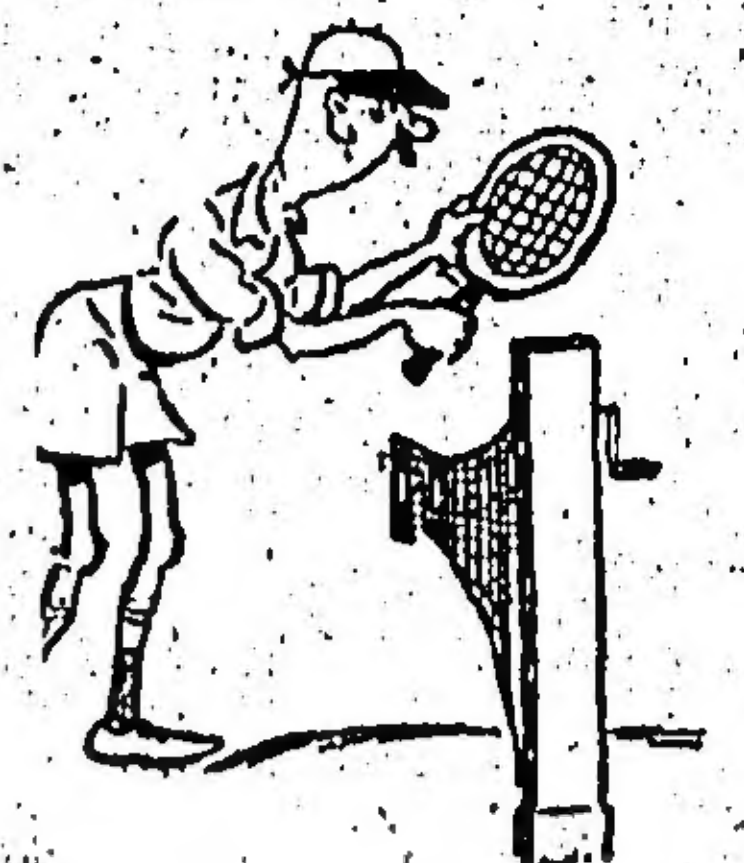

I have said nothing about lower fares. If they become possible you will get them. I have never "featured" them in my case for the Bill.

For I believe that facilities, development and service must come first.

And now I conclude. I have given you enough visions for one day.

The Very Idea!

SPORTING INSTINCTS
By Eddie "Larwood" Kelly.

NOW that the tennis season is upon us it is time for us to put on our football boots and take a hand in the revision of rules which becomes necessary at the close of each season of slaughter on the cricket field.

The players have patched up their bruises and the spectators have forgotten their disgust at the sight of their favourites dribbling down the whole length of the field so we can get together and fashion a few more laws to govern the game.

We ourselves were wont to disport ourselves on the green sward in the days of our youth, and flatter ourselves that we know how football should be played.

It's a man's game but that is not why we chucked it.

You see, we used to have spikes on the front of our boots to protect ourselves against attacks, and every time we kicked a ball they had to fetch a new one and take a player off.

It was some time before the referee noticed what was happening, but when we took a penalty kick and the ball unfortunately stuck around the toe of our boot and refused to budge, he blew his whistle and we woke up the following forenoon.

The case went before the F. A. Council and through a misunderstanding on the part of those who voted against us, our name was struck off the lists.

We were also summoned for malicious wounding but we managed to get our football team on the jury and they viewed the affair in its right light and we left the court an innocent man.

To avoid a repetition of such a deplorable incident, we suggest that hitting below the belt be barred in future. This would cut the leg theory right out of the game.

Kicking with both feet together should be abandoned as the action lacks style. In fact, all rough play should be treated as an infringement.

This does not include hitting the referee, as it is better that the boys should take it out of a paid official rather than one of the other team, who is merely playing for the love of the game.

Referees, we suggest, should be chosen for their intelligence and not for their ability to play Schubert's Serenade on the whistle, and to add refinement to the game it would be better if they could borrow a dress suit to wear in action.

Football being essentially an open-air pastime the players should wear as little as possible.

One team could play in the altogether and boots, and their opponents could distinguish themselves by playing in boots and the altogether, weather and the police permitting.

Shooting at the goal within 20 yards is unfair to the goal-keeper, and to counter-balance this rule, the goal-keeper should be forbidden to pull faces at the players.

The cap is rather effete and a touch of dignity could be added to the scene if the goal-keeper wore a bowler hat.

Players with thin legs could wear leggings and in rainy weather might be allowed an umbrella.

For those whose natural adornment demands it, these should not be permitted but these should not be used as a weapon of offence.

When making up their fixture lists secretaries should not write to each other as "Dear Sam" or "Dear Jim" unless they mean it and all communication to the Association must be enclosed in sealed envelopes.

Players who collide with each other on the field of battle or kick the ball out of turn will, of course, do the gentlemanly thing and apologise. Speaking to the referee should be barred—actions speak louder.

A player receiving the raspberry from male spectators may turn it at his own risk, but on receiving it from a female spectator he should retire to the pavilion and don some clothes.

HEN KILLS A SNAKE

STATUTE BEEHIVES

More strange facts from all parts of the world, sent by Reuter Correspondents.

Statistics published in Prague show that one citizen in every seven is liable for seizure of goods for non-payment of debt.

A struggle between a hen and a snake at Vendersdorf, South Africa, lasted for five minutes—and the hen killed the snake. But an hour later the hen died from the snake's poisoned bite.

Muri, a tom-cat belonging to the proprietor of a grocery shop in Vienna, is believed by its owner to be one of the largest in the world. He weighs seventeen pounds. Twenty-one wooden statues, some of them eight feet high, are being used as beehives by a farmer in the village of Hoefel Bohemia. Some of the statues were erected by monks in the seventeenth century.

The remains of a sixteen-year-old Princess have just been cremated at Loethen, Anhalt, Germany. But the Princess died more than 300 years ago.

Her remains lay in the tombs of the Princely house of Anhalt-Koethen, in St. Jacob's church. A spark from a lamp set the tomb on fire and the coffin of the princess was destroyed.

Josef Wyobek, aged 40, of Warsaw enjoys a peculiar diet. While he was resisting arrest, handcuffs were put on him, but he promptly broke these and swallowed them.

When taxed by the judge, he boasted of his "ostrich" digestion, and claimed that before the war he used to swallow coins and watches. He was sent to prison for a month in which to digest the handcuffs.—Reuter.

PEOPLE CAN LIVE LONGER

FEW SIMPLE RULES OF CENTENARIAN

WOMAN'S RECIPE

Sydney, N.S.W. Most people could live to be 90 if they took the necessary care of themselves and observed a few simple rules.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Sarah Musgrave, who has celebrated her 103rd birthday.

Abstinence from intoxicating liquor, moderation in eating, plenty of sleep, contentment of mind, and a reasonable amount of work, together with cleanliness and goldfish, is her recipe for longevity.

Looking back 80 or 90 years, Mrs. Musgrave believes that the greatest changes in life compared with those of old days are the methods of transport and the remarkable freedom of present-day girls.

The veteran was the first white child born in the Young district, and she has a keen recollection of the early days. In the awful drought of 1849-52 she worked 10 hours daily manning the windlass to draw water for the starving stock. When the flood broke she was marooned in an aborigine's hut for eight days.

She has 96 descendants, including two great grandchildren. Her sister, who died in December at the age of 98, left 190 descendants.

Mrs. Musgrave still sews and does housework, travels to Sydney by train to shop, and reads newspapers and books.—Reuter.

UGLIEST WOMEN IN EUROPE

Breslau—Provides the worst food.

The flying reporter is now wondering what phrase he will apply to London.—Reuter.

Acid Baths For Body Burns

NEW SAVIOUR TO HUMANITY

Milwaukee, Wisconsin. A new bath treatment for land body burns was described recently before the American Medical Association. The lives of persons severely burned by petrol explosions, ignited clothing or extensive scalds may be saved by tannic acid baths, it is claimed.

The bath provides a method of preventing infection, previously difficult because of the great pain suffered by victims of burns. One doctor said that he believed that most of the deaths and exhausting illnesses resulting from burns were due to infection alone. The tannic acid bath relieves pain to such an extent that scrupulous cleaning of burned areas is possible.

Human faces burned beyond recognition now can be made over by surgeons. Old and new photographs and plaster models are used as guides in the process.

When eyelids are burned away, new ones can be made of skin from other parts of the body, even to the membranous lining which is supplied from the muscous membrane of the mouth. Eyebrows and eyelashes can be made from fragments of the scalp. Noses and ears, almost obliterated, may be restored by manipulations of the skin.—Reuter.

THREE MILES A MINUTE TRAINS

MOSCOW'S CONTRIBUTION TO SPEED AGE

Moscow. Tests of a new train which hurtles along a single rail at enormous speed are to be made in Moscow.

The single-rail is raised on trestles, and the cars are double in the form of a saddle.

Each of these cars will hold from 80 to 100 passengers and will be equipped with two 530 h.p. motors. It is hoped that these "trains of the future" will achieve a speed of 190 miles per hour—more than three miles a minute.—Reuter.

CHINA AND LEAGUE.

STRANGE SOLICITUDE FROM JAPANESE SPOKESMAN

Shanghai, July 22. The Chinese press in Shanghai quotes a spokesman of the Japanese Legation as saying that China's enlistment of co-operation with the League of Nations in re-organising the country constitutes a "threat" to Japan which cannot be ignored.

The spokesman added, that the move, coming after Japan's withdrawal from the League, has shown that China intended to continue her anti-Japanese activities in China.

Instead of seeking Japanese co-operation, China has evidently preferred to turn farther afield, thus ignoring Japan's interest in her development.—Reuter.

Hen-Pecked Husbands Hold Meeting

NEW DEMANDS TO BE MADE

London. The famous "Adam-without-Eve" club, secret organisation of hen-pecked husbands, has held its annual "freedom" meeting.

The rally was held in a moorland hamlet, "somewhere in Yorkshire." One of the rules of the rendezvous was that no man who went was to tell his wife.

Membership is open to all husbands with nagging wives. Each new member is initiated with the secret ceremonial in which he "swears by the snake" to support the club's proposals.

The proposals this year include the demand for a night out once a week, more pocket money, and less dish-washing.

The club made merry at its annual gathering over the news that the Threatened Wives Defence Club has disbanded.—Reuter.

MEMORIAL TO PIONEER

WOMAN WHO FOUGHT FOR EDUCATION

MADE SCHOOL LIFE HAPPIER

London. A memorial hall is to be erected to the late Miss Charlotte Cowdroy, the pioneer principal of the Crouch End High School for Girls, who spent her life fighting for the proper education of girls. For her, however, the "proper education of girls" did not consist in providing them with public schools modelled as, closely as possible upon those of their brothers.

Nor did she encourage them to compete with the male members of their family by seeking to enter the professions or the commercial world.

Her aim was to educate her girls to excel in all "womanly and wisely accomplishments." Physical work was of great value, in her opinion, not as an aid to beauty nor even because it produced a healthy body, but because a fit body is more likely to house a well-balanced mind.

Miss Cowdroy considered that the set face, muscular rigidity and ungainly carriage which results from some systems of physical work, inevitably produced a corresponding loss of resilience, poise and grace of mind.

The memorial which is being planned to commemorate her work in the school which she ruled as principal for many years, is to include a new hard tennis court and an outdoor classroom. When the latter is built, there will be sufficient room for the whole school to be accommodated in the open air.

Shortly before she died, Miss Cowdroy finished a book which is to be published under the title of "Wasted Womanhood."—Reuter.

THAMES AS A MUSEUM

ITS MUD HAS MANY TREASURES

FEW REVELATIONS

London. As the Thames rolls darkly through London to the sea, people think of it as an artery of commerce, as the most historic of England's waterways or—if they lack imagination—just as a river.

But they never think of it as something else which it undoubtedly is—a museum. Historic treasures ranging over some 3,000 years have been discovered in the mud which forms its bed, usually during dredging operations.

A muzzle-loading bronze gun has been found off Free Trade Wharf, and bones, weapons and coins have been found at various times. It has given up relics of the mighty beasts which roamed the swamps and plains or made their homes in the huge forests which covered the land in the dim past long before the world had heard of Rome.

A mollusc dating from the period—those were the days!—when the island, enjoyed a tropical climate, and acorns before history began, has been found bedded deep in London clay, while the bones, teeth, and great curved tusks of that fearsome prehistoric "elephant"—a mammoth—have been unearthed from a bed of glacial gravel near Thames Haven. Exquisitely designed figures of gods of the Roman Pantheon, and the bronze head of a statue of the Roman Emperor Hadrian, are other discoveries.

Bronze spear heads and shields which were a thousand years old when Julius Caesar's galley appeared off Britain's shores in 55 B.C. have been found. So have the iron head of a Saxon spear, a dug-out canoe, 17th century clay pipes, and a dug-out canoe.... and so the list might go on, almost for ever.—Reuter.

GOLD YIELD INCREASE

Australia's Greater Productivity

Melbourne, Victoria. Because of the increased price and the reduced costs of production, the yield of gold in Australia continued to increase. In the first three months of 1933 the estimated total yield was 174,625 oz., or approximately 18,000 oz. more than in the first quarter of 1932, and 58,000 oz. more than in the corresponding period of 1931.—Reuter.

TRADE WITH THE PACIFIC

INTERESTING FIGURES FROM VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Canada.

A comprehensive paper on the growth during the past decade of Canada's trade with all other countries bordering on the Pacific Ocean was presented by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to the Fifth Pacific Science Congress which has met in the early part of June in Victoria and Vancouver in the Pacific province of British Columbia. The trade of Canada was shown to have increased rapidly with all these countries from 1923 to 1929 under normal trading conditions, while the world wide depression following the year 1929 hampered the exchange of goods between Canada and the other countries bordering on the Pacific.

Imports into Canada from 1923 to 1932 decreased from $3,985,000 to $13,996,000 or 54.8 per cent. while exports to Asiatic countries declined from $38,710,000 to $24,348,000 or 37.1 per cent.

In 1929 Canada's imports from Asia totalled $33,203,000 and from Oceania $22,198,000, while exports to Asia in 1929 amounted to $82,582,000 and to Oceania $40,090,000. During 1929 Canada's purchases from principal Asiatic countries were: Japan $18,324,000; China $2,968,000; Ceylon $2,677,000; Straits Settlements $1,767,000; and Hongkong $1,272,000. Canada's sales to the principal Asiatic countries were: Japan $37,505,000; China $27,209,000; British India $3,470,000; Dutch East Indies $2,727,000; Hongkong $2,487,000; and Straits Settlements $1,158,000. In the same year Canada's purchases from the countries of Oceania were: New Zealand $14,097,000; Australia $3,519,000; and Fiji $3,888,000 while Canada's exports to these countries were as follows: New Zealand $20,406,000; Australia $19,125,000; and Fiji $411,000.—Reuter.

With the Bowling Green, Craighower and Recreio, all suffering defeats in the First Division, and the K.B.G.C. second string losing in the Second Division, there were enough surprises pulled out of hat in the Bowls League on Saturday to keep a conjurer interested.

The effect on the league tables was inconsiderable, except that Civil Service in both sections improved their positions and are now strong challengers in Division 2.

The Recreio definitely bade farewell to their championships aspirations in the senior section.

Belgium and Germany qualified for the next round of the elimination tournament for the 1934 Davis Cup competition during the week-end.

PRESENT SYSTEM
UPHELDMeeting in Favour of Resolution

Paris, July 22. Contrary to expectations, this morning's meeting of Davis Cup nations voted by seven against six to maintain the present eliminatory system in the European Zone.

There was no question regarding any alteration to the rules to establish a Pacific Zone.

Last year the International Federation authorised the new scheme to begin in 1933, whereby only zone finalists of the Davis Cup matches would enter the 1934 competition.

All others were to compete in a qualifying contest held in July, August, and September of this year, and then only the semi-finalists would be admitted for the 1934 competition.

This system makes it impossible for a nation which did not compete one year to challenge in succeeding years.—Reuter.

SWIMMING
TITLESOPPOSITION TO
V.R.C. QUESTH.K.I.A.S.A. TO HOLD EVENTS

The close to the first season of the Hongkong International Amateur Swimming Association will be provided by the staging of the Colony Championships. These it is announced, will probably take place on September 7, 8 and 9, in the European Y.M.C.A.'s pool, if permission be granted.

Judging from the success of the Association's gala on June 24, these championships should attract much interest.

At the meeting of the H.K.I.A.S.A. Council on Friday, the programme was discussed and the following events for men were approved:

50 Yards Free Style; 100 Yards Free Style; 220 Yards Free Style; 440 Yards Free Style; 880 Yards Free Style; 1760 Yards Free Style (Combined Plain and Fancy); 200 Yards Team Race (Teams of four); 200 Yards Breast Stroke; 100 Yards Back Stroke.

The following events were decided upon for ladies:

50 Yards Free Style; 100 Yards Free Style; 440 Yards Free Style (Providing there are four entries); 200 Yards Breast Stroke; 100 Yards Back Stroke; 200 Yards Team Race (Teams of four); Diving (Providing there are four entries).

In addition there will be a water-polo game between two teams which will be decided at a later date by the Finance Committee, who have the arrangements in hand.

THE DUAL CONTROL.

As a result of the H.K.I.A.S.A. Council's decision to hold their own Championships in September, the question of the Colony Championships to be held under the auspices of the Victoria Recreation Club now arises.

Rule 9 of the Association Rules reads: "Clubs and players under the jurisdiction of this Association shall not take part in any competition organised by non-affiliated Clubs or Associations not recognised by this Association."

This ruling makes it impossible for any of the first-class swimmers in Clubs recognised by the Association to take part in the Colony Championships held under the auspices of the V.R.C. who are not an affiliated Club.

The Championships to be held by the V.R.C. will only be confined to clubs which are not affiliated to the new Association—Chinese Athletic, Fukien A.A., Chinese Y.M.C.A., and the Army.

HEADLEY SCORES BRILLIANT CENTURY

WEST INDIES MAKE AUSPICIOUS START IN THE SECOND TEST

A masterly display of batting by G. Headley and Ronch, who added 200 runs for the second wicket, placed the West Indies in a strong position at the end of the first day of the second Test match with England which opened on Saturday at Old Trafford.

Both batsmen topped the three-figure mark, Headley remaining undefeated when stumps were drawn. By that time the visitors' scores had been advanced from 28 for 1 to 338 for 0.

A feature of the day's play was the brilliant wicket-keeping of Ames. Only six extras were shown in the big West Indies score.

The match commenced in sunny weather and the wicket was in a perfect condition.

Clark, the Northants bowler, replaced Bowes, who was injured, in the English side.

The West Indies team consisted of C. A. Ronch, I. Barrow, E. L. G. Head, G. C. Grant, G. Headley, C. A. Williams, E. Achong, A. E. Martindale and V. A. Valentine.

Grant, the West Indian captain, won the toss and elected to bat, sending in his opening pair, Ronch and Barrow.

With the score at 28, Ronch was bowled by Clark, who had taken a hat-trick in the first Test.

Barrow was joined by Headley, both playing the English attack with the utmost confidence. At lunch-time, they had taken the score to 93 with the batsmen separated, Barrow claiming 49 and Headley 33.

The crowd of 6,000 who saw the commencement of the game had swelled to 15,000 when the match was resumed after lunch.

The English attack held no terrors for both Barrow and Headley, both of whom scored freely.

BARROW BOWLED.

After he had added only five to his century, Barrow was bowled by Wyatt, the score being 228. His was an attractive, if somewhat, chancy innings. He made his runs in five minutes under four hours, and scored nine fours. His partnership with Headley produced exactly 200 runs.

RELIEF COMMISSION.

FORMALLY INAUGURATED
AT PEKING

Peking, July 22.
The North China War Relief Commission was inaugurated yesterday morning in the presence of seventeen members, with General Huang Fu in the Chair.

Although in a very weak condition General Ho Ying-ching managed to attend the meeting and administer the oath to members on behalf of the Central Government.

The meeting elected Mr. Yu Hsueh-ching, Z. S. Bien and Y. S. Djang as Directors of the three sections of Emergency Relief, Rural Rehabilitation and Finance, respectively.

The Commission has already received a million dollars from Nanking for relief work and it will float bonds to the value of $4,000,000 in North China.—Reuter.

IONIA EARTHQUAKE.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED
IN LATEST DISASTER

Constantinople, July 23.

A disastrous earthquake in Ionia, Turkish Asia Minor, has devastated the whole of the district south-east of Smyrna, in the Gulf of Smyrna.

Preliminary reports indicate that a least thirty people were killed, the number of injured running into many hundreds. Large areas have been desolated, and an acute food shortage exists.

Red Cross units are being rushed by land and sea to the rescue of the unfortunate people.

Earthquakes, doing considerable damage, are a frequent phenomena in Asia Minor, particularly in the district now affected, although during the past few years it has enjoyed some immunity.

DEATH PENALTY

NEW NAZI LAW FOR CIVIL OFFENCES.

Berlin, July 23.

Death will be the penalty in future for any action against public officials or Storm Troopers.

The extreme penalty will also be imposed upon any person guilty of the distribution of so-called atrocity propaganda impairing the dignity and existence of the State.

These measures were announced by Dr. Goering after an emergency meeting of Ministers, Governors and Nazi leaders in Berlin to-day.

A Bill, making the imposition of the extreme penalty legal for civil crimes, will be submitted to the Cabinet immediately.

Dr. Goering hurriedly returned to Berlin from a holiday yesterday in order to attend the meeting.

In a statement Herr Goering said that these measures have become necessary because it was becoming evident that Communism and the enemies of the State were only partly conquered.

He added that a new special Chamber of Public Prosecutors would ensure that death sentences would be carried out as soon as possible, regardless of any extenuating circumstances.

All Nazi offenders in the past would be pardoned, but this implied henceforth that unauthorized acts would be an offence against the Nazi State.

Herr Goering's hurried return to Berlin is a sequel to the alarming discontent within the ranks of the Storm Troopers owing to Hitler's declaration that the "revolution had ended."—Reuter.

Death Penalty Provisions.

Berlin, July 23.

The Bill which Dr. Goering has submitted to the Cabinet provides the death penalty for attempting, inciting, assisting or planning to kill Public Prosecutors, police officials, Storm Troopers, for treasonable writing or inciting against the State, or for the infringement of the regulations against the formation of parties or associations.—Reuter.

NAZI ATROCITIES.

Allegation That "Spies" Incited
Ill-Treatment Campaign.

Berlin, July 23.

The allegation that "spies" had joined the Nazis and incited them to ill-treat their opponents in order to "give colour to the atrocity lies" has been made in a Nazi Party circular.

The circular calls upon members of the Nazi Party to free themselves from any possibility of contamination by such subversive elements, declaring that any Nazi who in future lends himself to such activities will be put in a concentration camp.—Reuter.

The local office of the Dollar Line advises that the President Grant is now scheduled to sail from this port at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, instead of 6 o'clock as previously announced.

On her homeward voyage, the President Grant has been advanced 48 hours. She will arrive at 6 a.m. on Sunday from Manila and will sail for San Francisco via Shanghai and ports at 6 a.m. on the following day. This change of sailing will enable her to fill up the gap caused in the Dollar schedule by the transference of the liner President Taft.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

There is as much adventure in business as there is in leading an expedition into hitherto unexplored wilds. This is the opinion of the author of more than 20 years' experience as one of the leading figures in the motion picture industry, as well as with the authority of an explorer who had ventured into unknown jungles.

Lanky is adventuring, after twenty years as production head of Paramount, independent production for Fox Film, and says he is getting as big thrill from it as he did when he led an expedition into the Central American jungles several years ago, blazing a trail through territory never before explored by white men.

"Zoo in Budapest" is his first production for Fox. Gene Raymond and Loraine Young are co-stars in the film now at the King's Theatre.

"Just My Luck"

"Just My Luck" is generous in the number of laughs it gives you, because Ralph Lynn develops into a bombastic "go-getter" from being a timid spineless music teacher—almost afraid of his own shadow, and certainly afraid to walk under a ladder. In this new picture his characterization differs considerably from the usual "silly-ass" role with which we have become familiar. To add to the attractiveness, Ralph Lynn is rarely off the screen, and "Just My Luck" with its charm of setting and beauty of rural backgrounds, is really good, wholesome entertainment of a pleasing light character. "Just My Luck" is now playing at the Central Theatre.

"Strictly Personal"

Marjorie Rameau's real-life romance, which took her out of the movies just after making a sensational screen debut, has more of the elements of the dramatic in it than any play or film in which she has ever appeared. Miss Rameau returns to the screen to join Eddie Quillan and Dorothy Jordan in "Strictly Personal," expose of the "get-acquainted club" racket, coming on Thursday to the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Rameau was persuaded to come out of retirement to play the leading feminine role. She is cast as the wife of Edward Ellis, or "I am a Fugitive" fame, who plays the role of an escaped convict. Together with Dorothy Jordan, their ward, they operate a "get-acquainted club" of the better sort. The character of the enterprise changes radically, however, when Louis Calhern, a con man, recognizes Ellis, and under threat of exposure, forces himself in as a partner. He devotes his attentions to an apparently wealthy widow. When she confesses that she is actually penniless, he kills her in a burst of rage.

The picture reaches a breathless climax in his attempt to escape, to force Miss Jordan to flee with him, and to place the blame for the murder on Ellis.

"The Third String"

George Pearson, who directed the W. W. Jacobs film "The Third String," which will be shown at the King's Theatre next change, is Britain's oldest director. He has been in production since 1913, and before that wrote film scenarios.

For the production he had constructed a replica of a typical waterside inn, complete with all the usual appurtenances and peopled by a crowd of as authentic longshore characters as one could wish to see.

The big climax of "The Third String" is the boxing match between Sandy Powell and Alf Goddard. Handled and played with a true sense of broad comedy and burlesque, it evoked peals of laughter from the studio hands, who voted it as good as a day's pay—almost.

Alf Goddard plays the role of the ferocious bruiser "Bill Lumm", whom Sandy accidentally knocks out. Other players are Mark Daly as Peter Kusset, and Charles Paton as Sam Small.

"What! No Beer?"

The riotous comedy pair, Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, make their latest co-starring appearance on the Queen's screen in "What! No Beer?" a screening satire on the American beer controversy. Buster and "Schnezzle" run their own brewery in this picture and consequently all the mechanism of a modern brewery was installed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and set in operation, including a 1,000-barrel boiler, vats and bottling machines.

For the romantic scenes of the story, Phyllis Barry, seen recently

all the time quite casually rubbed off the bloom.

"You're a wise woman," Monnie marvelled. "You see through all of us."

Kay burst in, interrupting this colloquy. Kay in a brown suit with a green beret set saucily on the side of her bright curls. How pretty she was! Prettier than anyone Monnie had seen since she'd been away.

"You wretch!" Kay was exclaiming. "Barging in like this without letting us know!"

"I thought you liked surprises," Monnie avoided Kay's penetrating glance.

Kay's eyes flew to her mother's. "Has she heard?"

Monnie saw the quick frown and shake of the head her mother gave in return. Curiosity rose in a tide.

"Heard what? What have you been keeping from me?"

"It's nothing." Her mother spoke almost apologetically. "Nothing you ought to be greeted with on your arrival home at any rate."

"Bad news?" Monnie's heart began to beat fast.

"She might as well know," Kay informed her mother gravely. Then she turned to Monnie. "Dan Cardigan was hurt in a motor accident last night," she said. "He's in the hospital."

Monnie got to her feet a bit unsteadily. "I—there must be something I can do! Can I see him?"

"I don't think so," Kay said slowly. "It's serious. Internal injuries—and they're afraid of concussion." This morning when I talked to someone in the office there was a report they might operate."

Monnie clenched her hands at her sides. "I've got to see him," she said slowly, painfully. "He wrote me—I got the letter in London. Mother, you may as well know it. Dan is the only one I have ever loved. I came home to marry him."

"Marry—?" Mrs. O'Dare flashed again that signal glance to Kay. "Tell her," she said quietly.

Kay looked away compassionately. "Dan and Sandra Lawrence were married by a justice of the peace last night," she said before the tears came. "Half an hour before the accident."

GENERAL HUANG BACK IN NANKING

Nanking, July 23.

General Huang Mu-sung, Pacification Commissioner for Sinkiang, returned here yesterday by aeroplane, accompanied by four of his subordinates. Immediately after he stepped down from his aeroplane General Huang was surrounded by newspaper men at the aerodrome.

General Huang declined to discuss the Sinkiang situation, but promised to give a press reception shortly in order to make a detailed statement regarding the Sinkiang trouble.

One of Gen. Huang's counselors subsequently interviewed by the press, explained that Gen. Huang's telegrams to Nanking were purposely delayed by the local military authorities, thus giving rise to some anxiety regarding the Commissioner's safety.—Reuter.

opposite Ronald Colman in "Cynara," was cast in the leading feminine role. Miss Barry is the Australian musical comedy star who crossed the Pacific to seek stage fame on Broadway but was seized upon as potential starring material for Hollywood. The cast also includes such well known players as Roscoe Ates, John Miljan, Henry Armetta, Edward Brophy, Charles Dunbar and Charles Giblyn.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Is it good policy to lead an ace against a little slam contract? As a general rule it does not pay. You can depend upon it that if two partners have intelligently and correctly reached a slam contract, they are prepared for your ace opening. And more than likely if you do open the ace, you will establish the king and possibly the queen of that suit for your opponents.

Try to establish a trick in another suit for yourself or your partner, and if you do get in with your ace, cash the other trick and thus defeat the contract. If you do lose your ace, it is simply one trick and is not a great loss against a tremendous possible gain.

Against a slam contract it is very important that partners watch the drop of every card. If your partner shows the control of a certain suit, don't try to protect that suit—let him do that, and you try to protect another suit.

The following hand is a good example of discarding small cards because they appear worthless and trying to protect a suit which partner has previously shown to be protected by him.

The Bidding

While South, the dealer, has a biddable spade suit, the stronger and better bid is one—no trump. West passed and North responded with two spades. South then bid three spades, North was now

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

U.S. NAVAL MEN
SAVE WOMAN

Had it not been for the prompt action of Lieut. Jones and Seaman Montgomery, both of the U.S.S. Fulton, a Chinese woman would have achieved her object of committing suicide yesterday evening. Lieut. Jones and Seaman Montgomery were in a naval cutter in midstream at about 7.25 p.m. when they saw a woman jump off from the vehicular ferry-launch Man To, which was proceeding from Yau-mai to Hongkong. They both dived in and between them managed to rescue the woman.

First aid failed to revive her, and she was immediately sent to Kowloon Hospital. Up to a late hour last night, she had not regained consciousness.

Justified in jumping the contract to five spades and South went to six.

The Play

If East opens the ace of diamonds there is no play to the hand. The better opening is the queen of clubs. However, this opening cannot stop the slam contract either, and unfortunately a careless discard by West will allow the declarer to make seven in the following manner.

The queen of clubs is won in dummy with the ace. Three rounds of spades are taken. On the second and third spades East discards the seven and nine of diamonds, showing control of the diamond suit.

Declarer now runs off four heart tricks, discarding the four of diamonds from his own hand on the fourth heart. He then leads the deuce of spades and West carelessly discards his seemingly worthless three of clubs, still holding three diamonds to the queen.

This discard allows the declarer to make a grand slam, as he now plays two more spades and squeezes East. On the first spade East can let go the Jack of diamonds, but on the second spade, if he lets go the ace of diamonds, dummy's king is good, while if he lets go the ten of clubs, the declarer will win the last two club tricks.

OIL CATCHES FIRE

BRIGADE QUELL BLAZE
ON LIGHTER

For over an hour on Saturday, one of the two fire-boats of the Brigade engaged a fire which had broken out on an oil lighter, of 400 piculs capacity, moored off the foreshore at Cheung-sha-wan. The two monitors supplemented by a hose delivery, on the float, came into action, and thousands of gallons of water were thrown on the flames in an endeavour to save the cargo of crude oil, amounting to 340 tons, stored in bulk in three hold tanks. In this, the firemen were successful, and only a few drums of oil, with their contents valued at less than $200, which were on deck, were lost. No casualties were caused.

The fuel oil cargo belonged to the Associated Petroleum Co., a Chinese concern, with offices at the National Savings and Commercial Bank building, Des Voeux Road Central. When seen yesterday, they stated that the oil, which was shipped from America, was left in storage on the junk moored in the bay in the absence of suitable installation facilities ashore.

The fire, it appears to them, was caused, about 11.30 a.m., by an accident resulting in one of a number of 55-gallon drums stored apart on the deck being set alight. Some members of the crew of eight were alarmed by the situation and jumped overboard, but others got into a dinghy alongside and pulled to the shore, whence they sent a call by telephone to the Fire Brigade at Kowloon.

The oil stored in bulk below was left untouched, except for water unavoidably getting into it. The damage was confined to 550 gallons in the ten drums on the deck,

MAN CHEWS TICKETS.

SURPRISED BY VISIT OF
POLICE OFFICERS

When a Police party, under Det.-Insp. J. Fender raided 20A Peel Street, in connexion with a po plu lottery, a Chinese detective found an elderly Chinese writing tickets in the cockpit. On seeing him, the writer tore up the tickets and chewed them. He expectorated the fragments. Altogether 45 tickets were seized on the premises.

Brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court on Saturday, the defendant was charged with keeping a common gaming house for the lottery and possession of the tickets seized.

Defendant admitted he chewed the tickets, because he was afraid of the fragments flying away! His daughter, he contended, wrote the tickets.

Defendant admitted two previous convictions for similar offences, and was fined $100 or two months' on the first charge, and $25 or fourteen days, on the charge of possession, the sentences to run consecutively.

Admitting the possession of 399 po plu tickets, a Chinese woman was fined $300 or three months' gaol.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST
SCIENTIST—HONGKONG

"Truth" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "The Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations" (Ps. 100:5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; and Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth; and the mountain of the Lord of hosts the holy mountain. . . . Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Behold, I will save my people from the east country, and from the west country; And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; and they shall be my people, in truth and in righteousness. These are the things that ye shall do; Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates" (Zech. 8:3,7,8,16).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbooks, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth destroys falsity and error, for light and darkness cannot dwell together. Light extinguishes the darkness, and the Scripture declares that there is 'no night there.' To Truth there is no error,—all is Truth. . . . The best sermon ever preached is Truth practised and demonstrated by the destruction of sin, sickness and death" (pp.474,201).

MOLLISON'S STORY OF BRIDGEPORT CRASH

"Too Tired to See Where We Were Landing"

PERIL FOR LOCAL DOCTORS

DOZENS OF BOGUS CALLS

KIDNAPPERS OR A LUNATIC?

A rather grave situation which cannot but be viewed with alarm by members of the medical profession is disclosed as the result of investigations by the Telegraph into the case of Dr. Ma Wai-man, who was attacked with an iron bar in a Wanchai flat to which he was inveigled by a bogus telephone call.

The assailant who was rather well-dressed, was forced by shouts for help to escape through a trap door in the roof.

Three theories have been offered, namely, revenge, robbery and insanity.

The first and second are regarded as untenable. The third suggests that the affair may be placed alongside the unique events at Kowloon City sometime ago, when an unknown madman with a pet aversion, stalked through the streets and tapped every policeman he met on the head with a hammer.

OTHERS CALLED UP.

It now seems that a number of other well-known doctors within the space of two days, were enticed by similar telephone summonses, to the same floor at 139, Gloucester Road.

The list of the other victims, who escaped the experience of Dr. Ma, includes:

Dr. Chau Wai-cheung, President of the Hongkong Chinese Medical Association.

Dr. W. K. Fok, a member of the Council of the Association.

Dr. Yip Tai-ching (T. C. Yip), of China Building.

Dr. Chau Wai-cheung stated that the day before the attack on Dr. Ma, he had returned home from attending a number of cases, and was informed that a patient who gave his name as Chan desired his urgent attendance at the Gloucester Road floor. It was after 7.30 p.m. when he went there, and on reaching the third floor he met a man whom he could just distinguish in the half light as being of middle age, standing on the landing. He had either just locked the door or was silent on the purpose of the doctor's visit.

"I knew something was wrong when I saw the door locked, and so did not pursue the call," said Dr. Chau. He returned to his car in the street, and heard nothing further of the matter until seeing the account of the subsequent attack on Dr. Ma.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Dr. Yip Tai-ching perhaps had the most narrow escape of the quartette of doctors concerned. He was brought out by a similar call from his office in China Building, and arrived at the floor only an hour before Mr. Ma's unfortunate visit. He found the door locked, and received a reply from within that his services were not required at that address. If a definite motive was behind the call, the experience was one to be puzzled over. Dr. Yip attributed his escape to possible unpreparedness.

Various doctors seen during the course of this morning, to the attempted kidnapping sometime ago of Dr. Wong, and suggest that this is possibly the motive in the latest incidents.

SIX IN ONE DAY.

Dr. Chau Wai-cheung revealed that almost every leading member of his profession has at some time or other received bogus calls. He himself had been often favoured with these unwelcome attentions, as also were a number of other doctors, including Europeans.

One case is known of six eminent members of the profession being called out in one day to the home of a wealthy resident of Caine Road, only to discover on their arrival that they had been the victims of a hoax. Another address in Mosque Street, on the middle levels, has persistently been the scene of such attacks.

SHEEP AND GOATS

THE LATEST NAZI ORDER

RIGHT TO WEAR A BROWN SHIRT

Berlin, July 23.

A new order has been issued by the Nazi organisation apparently designed to enable them to distinguish easily between genuine Nazis and those who have joined the Party, regardless of their political convictions, in order to avoid trouble.

The order lays down that Brown Shirts may only be worn, in future, by persons who joined the Nazi Party before January 30, 1933.

The Government's determination to crush all opposition is emphasised by the passing of the death sentence upon six Communists in Cologne.

They were concerned in street fighting in February last when two Nazis were killed.

Three other Communists were sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude and six others were given long terms of imprisonment.

This follows hot upon heels of yesterday's laws.—Reuter.

Washington, July 23.

The conviction is growing in circles close to the President that nothing will be done to interfere with dollar fluctuations.

It seems to be the President's intention to let the dollar fluctuate about its present range in order to determine the level which will provide satisfactory commodity prices and then to stabilise the dollar at a new gold standard.

Senator Thomas stated that the inflation has so far been psychological, pointing out that President Roosevelt has not yet used his authority to expand the currency, except for a slight expansion of the Federal Reserve credit.

Senator Thomas urges that the time is ready for physical inflation to achieve $1.50 a bushel wheat and fifteen cent cotton.—Reuter.

AN EXHAUSTING FLIGHT

PLANE HITS DITCH AND OVERTURNS.

SHORT OF PETROL

New York, July 24.

Mr. J. A. Mollison was sufficiently recovered from his exhausting flight and the shock of his crash at Bridgeport, Connecticut, to be able to give an interview to a Reuter's representative at the local hospital.

The famous airman said that he decided to land at Bridgeport when he saw the lights of the airport and there was just a possibility that the amount of fuel in reserve would not be sufficient to carry the Seafarer on to New York.

"I was so tired," declared Mollison, "that I could not see properly where I was landing. I thought I had made it all right."

As a matter of fact, the machine landed in a ditch some distance from the airport and nosed over into soft marshland. But for the ditch, the mishap would probably have been much less serious.

When officials dashed to the scene, they heard Mollison shout: "For God's sake, come over here."

IMPROVISED STRETCHERS.

Rescuers improvised stretchers upon which the Mollisons were carried in cars and rushed to hospital. Both escaped with cuts and bruises as a result of the crash, but they were suffering severely from exhaustion. The difficulties of the Atlantic crossing had given them little chance of sleep and they had been in the air for 30 hours.

It was after the accomplishment of a brilliant feat, the crossing of the Atlantic from East to West, that Mr. and Mrs. Mollison, the famous British fliers, crashed this evening in Connecticut.

They are the first married couple to have flown the Atlantic in either direction. Mrs. Mollison (Amy Johnson) is the first woman to have flown the Atlantic from East to West.

They were attempting to fly nonstop from Pendine Sands, Wales, to New York, and doubtless would have completed their journey but for the darkness and the danger of petrol shortage.

CRASH LANDING.

Flying up Long Island Sound, they finally decided to make a landing at Bridgeport, only fifty miles from New York, and crashed when so doing.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 24.

Both the Mollisons were taken to hospital suffering from abrasions. Neither is seriously hurt. Their machine was wrecked.—Reuter.

SIGHTED OVER NEW FOUNDLAND.

The Mollisons were first sighted after a long journey over the Atlantic, having apparently been kept back by strong headwinds, over Harbour Grace.

At that time there was no definite information that the machine was that of the Mollisons, but both railway and postal officials were confident of their identification. The machine passed over Robinson, on the west coast of Newfoundland, at 11 a.m. local time.

It was sighted again at 11.15 a.m. at St. John's, Newfoundland.

It was sighted again at 11.30 a.m. at St. John's, Newfoundland.

Reservation On Silver Issue

AN UNDERSTANDING NOT AN AGREEMENT

UNTIL RATIFIED

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic

Message Ordinance, 1891. Received, July

24, 4 a.m.)

London, July 23.

The Nine-Power Silver Agreement has been fully completed, except for the signature of Bolivia, whose representatives in London are merely awaiting instructions from their government.

They are certain that the Bolivian Government will give their ready assent to the proposals. Erroneous reports that the agreement had not actually been signed apparently originated when last-minute minor changes were made in the text phraseology, designating the document as an understanding, rather than an agreement.

These changes required initialing which was completed at midnight when Dr. W. W. Yen, for China, and an Australian representative, affixed their signatures.

AN UNDERSTANDING.

Because the understanding must be ratified by all the governments signing, some of the countries concerned have issued a warning that it must not be construed as an agreement until it has been ratified.

A supplementary document, consisting of a contract between Australia, the United States, Canada, Mexico and Peru is now being negotiated, whereby they bind themselves to purchase annually certain fixed quantities, making up the total of $5,000,000 ounces.

FINALITY TO-DAY.

It is expected that this supplementary contract will be signed by Monday and its text issued for publication.

Meanwhile, it is intimated from Washington that the United States will continue the effort to rehabilitate silver regardless of the Conference results.

Well-informed observers state that the Administration is determined to leave no stone unturned in its efforts to secure a final settlement of the silver question.

FENG CLIMBS DOWN

A FACE-SAVING EFFORT

CONFERENCE AT KULING

Peking, July 24.

It is learned reliably that Marshal Feng Yu-shiang has now commenced the process of "climbing down."

It is stated that Feng told the Peking delegates, who were sent to secure a settlement by pacific means, that he cannot assume full responsibility for the conduct of the negotiations with Peking, as he is entirely surrounded by Generals Chi Chün-chang, Tang Chen-wu, and others. It is believed that the Peking authorities have submitted to Kuling a formula which will permit a settlement of the Chahar problem which will not result in a loss of face for Feng Yu-shiang.—Reuter.

Peking, July 23.

Rather more optimism prevails to-day regarding the situation in Chahar, and it is hoped that hostilities between Feng Yu-shiang and the Government forces will be avoided.

Although only five miles now separate the Government troops from those directed by Feng Yu-shiang, there has been no skirmishing and no sign of any move on the part of either side which would precipitate hostilities. Delegates return from Kaigan state that the Christian General is now inclined to be reasonable and, with the local authorities, seems to be waiting upon the outcome of the Kuling Conference.

FRIENDS ALIENATED.

There is no question that the revelation that Feng the Arch-Patriot has been negotiating with the Japanese has caused as a severe blow to his sympathisers in North China, while his evacuation of Dolon, after the bombastic claims connected with its "capture" has disgusted many.

Chinese sources state that Feng Yu-shiang is now ready to discuss measures for the abolition of his so-called anti-Japanese Army, upon the condition that the men are re-organised into other armaments. He is also desirous of peace negotiations for the settlement of the Chahar trouble.

There seems to be little doubt that the threat of firm measures against Feng is "calling his bluff".—Reuter.

WANG GOES TO KULING.

Shanghai, July 24.

Wang Ching-wei, accompanied by Admiral Chen Shao-kuan, Ku Mong-yu, Chu Chia-hua and Tseng Chung-ming, arrived at Kuling during the week-end to attend the conference with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek at Kuling.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Don't Be Careless of Your Beauty

By Alicia Hart

Carelessness in beauty is too frequent a fault in older women. They forget the necessity of putting their hair in place and powdering their noses ever so often.

The need for care in details increases as you get older. Somehow straggly hairs seem more straggly when they are grey. A hat placed carelessly askew on the head looks far worse when that head is not young.

Meticulous grooming runs beauty a close race when women are over 40. Every one knows some one dainty woman whose presence always gives them a little thrill of pleasure—a woman whose coiffure is always perfect, whose skin shows care, whose make-up is subtly perfect and whose clothes have neatness and charm.

Would that more women followed this lead, when the flush of youth is past!

The trouble is that women get to thinking of themselves as "getting on" and make the mistake of believing that it "doesn't matter." Little things are important in direct proportion to your years. Particularly when they are details in appearance.

Turn over a new leaf! When you leave for the office or start your house routine to-morrow, be sure you look just right. Then, sometime before lunch, take a minute off to make sure you still do. Repeat during the afternoon. You'll find your self-respect gets an uplift!

DISCOVERY IN NEW GUINEA

NEW IRRIGATED AND DEVELOPED LAND

A VISION OF LOVELINESS

Sydney, N.S.W. Unseen and unspoiled by white or civilised people, a rich and verdant territory has been discovered in New Guinea that is irrigated, cultivated and developed as well as the intensively worked market gardens in Australia.

Through the area, which at an altitude of 5,000 feet, runs a river broad and deep that is perfectly straight for about 90 miles and then it races across mountains, through deep gorges cut as though they were perfectly engineered railway cuttings.

In this verdant land and beautiful landscape a white man would forfeit his life to cannibals were he to venture unarmed and alone into this tempting paradise.

AERIAL DISCOVERY.

Mr. F. T. O'Dea was the first white man to see this vision of loveliness and home of savagery. In a Holden aeroplane and with four passengers he flew over it while on exploration work. It is across the Bismarck Ranges in a direction a little north of west from the Paris.

A smugglers' lair, complete with a narrow gauge railway for the transport of heavy loads of tobacco, has been discovered in a sewer at Halluin, on the Belgian frontier.

The smugglers entered the sewer at Menin, in Belgium, two miles from Halluin, placing the tobacco in trucks, which were wheeled by hand along the railway line. Rubber tyres were fitted to the trucks so that the people living above should not hear any rumble when a train was going by underneath. The tobacco was unloaded at the exit of the sewer on the outskirts of Halluin.

Half a ton of tobacco has been seized by the police, as well as the smugglers' rolling stock.

AGGRESSIVE WIRELESS CONDEMNED

STRONG RESOLUTION BY I. B. U.

Lucerne.

The use of wireless for aggressive propaganda was condemned by the International Broadcasting Union in the last session of its annual conference.

The Union adopted resolutions protesting strongly against the broadcasting of "abusive emissions" which was at present prevalent in various countries. It asked its members to appeal to their governments for legal protection against this practice.

The continued broadcasting of programmes or other communications specially intended for foreign countries, which would give rise to protestations from those countries, was voted an inadmissible action.

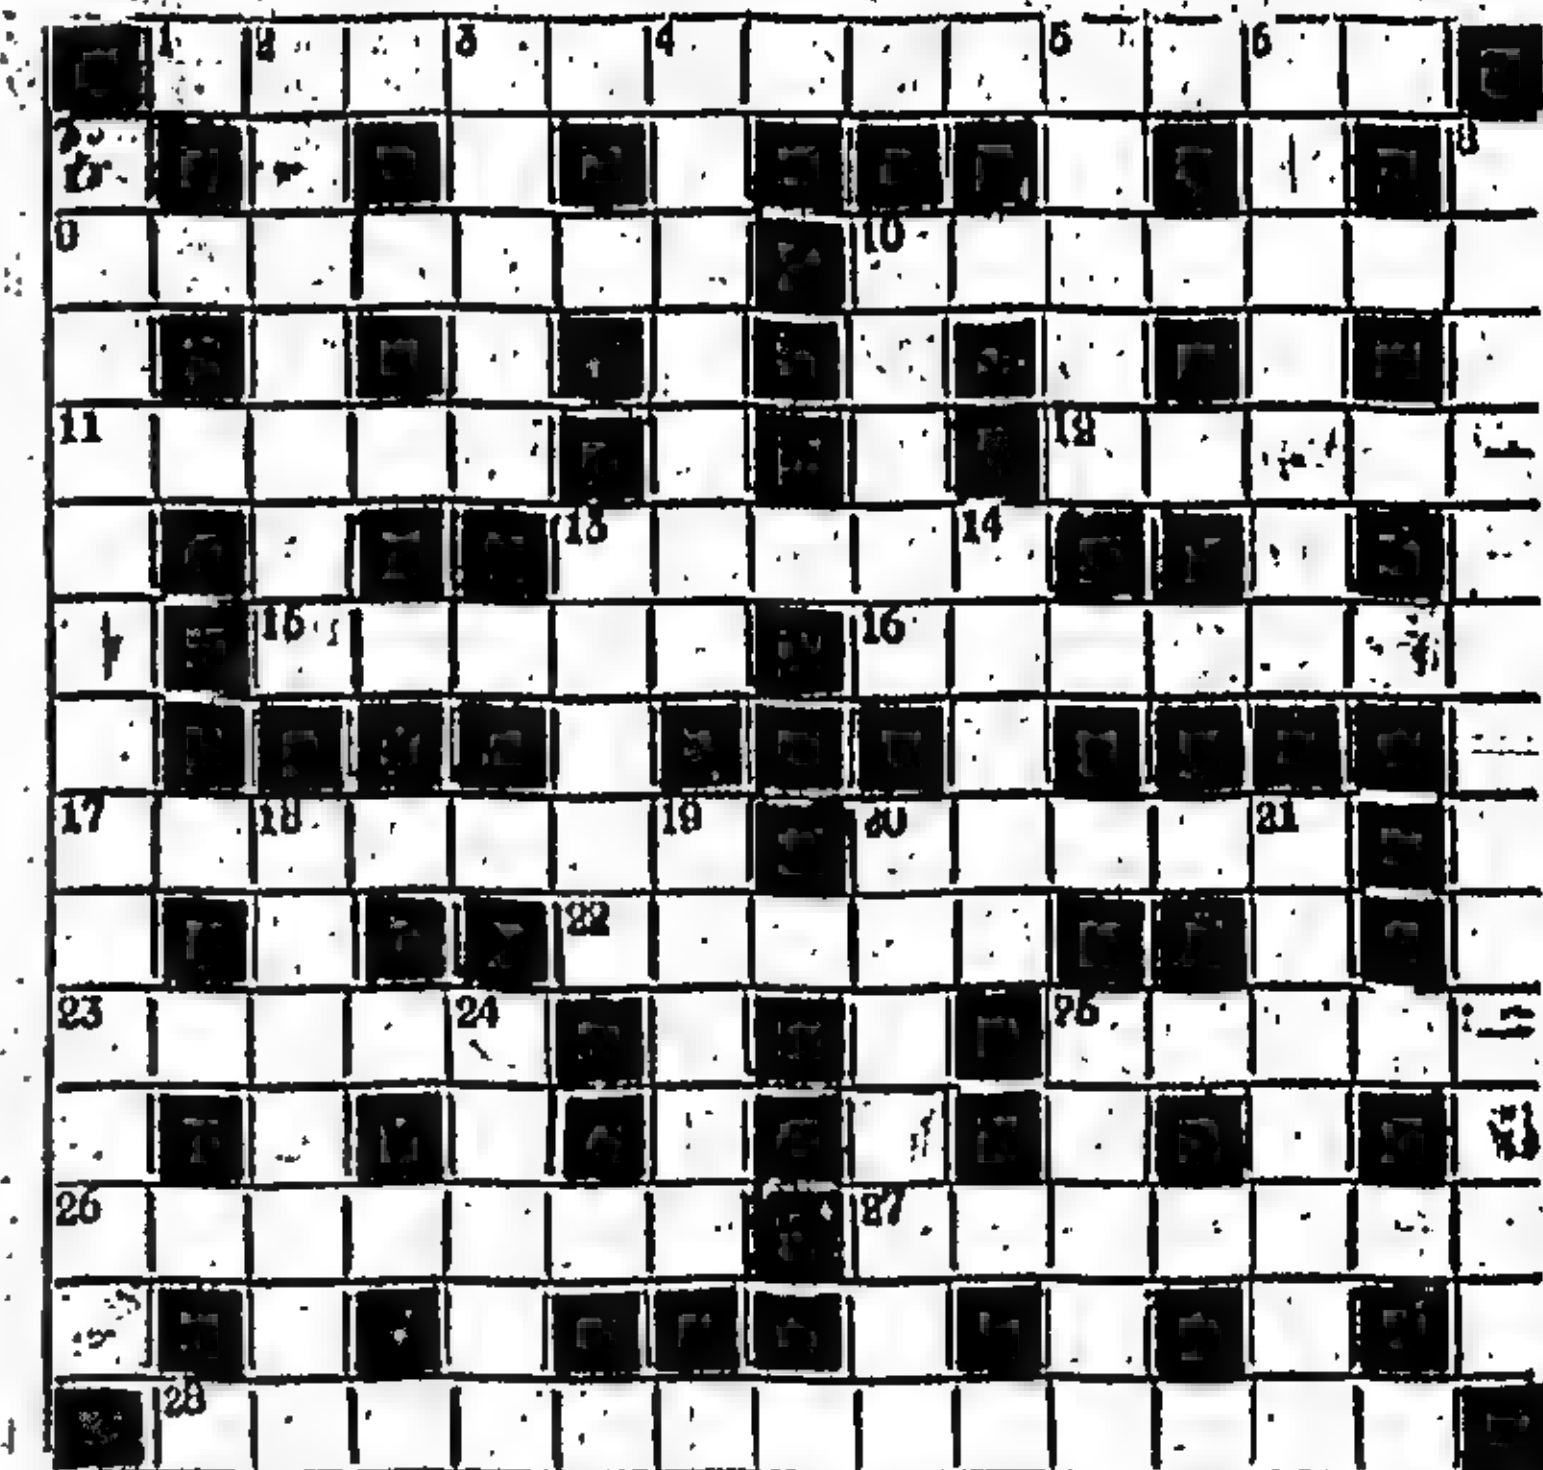

Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Carpendale, the President of the Union, commented on the increased number of receiving sets registered in Europe during 1932. Nearly two million new licences had been granted, which constituted an increase of about eight million listeners.

He said that the Council of the Union had decided to lend active cooperation in eliminating "unauthorised listeners."

Sir Charles Carpendale was re-elected President and Baron Van Den Bosch (Belgium) was elected Vice-president.

CHAPTER XL

The train slowed. Monnie, marshalling her forces and making certain her bags were all in order, felt a curious surge of excitement. She was home! Home at last after the long ocean voyage, the dash across New York to make the morning train to Belvedere. Arthur Mackenzie had been everything that was kind and thoughtful. Monnie had felt, on leaving him, a pang of compunction. It seemed unfair that she should be able to give him nothing in return.

"Write me," he had said, holding her hand, on parting. "If anything goes wrong—if things don't fall out as you expect." And Monnie had promised lightly. Why should anything go wrong now? She and Dan would be reconciled. They would be married directly after Christmas when his uncle's legacy set him free. She had no fears now. All the way seemed to be like an agreeable dream.

No one knew she was coming. She had not wired—she had thought she would surprise them all. It was strange, arriving on the platform with no one to greet her. Strange and exciting, too. Old Marley Brockway who drove the "Rapid Fire Taxi" took her bags, looking at her a bit curiously, she thought.

"Been away, I see." That was old Marley, always. As if you'd be getting off the train otherwise. Monnie said yes.

"Folks know you was comin'?"

She shook her head.

The ancient automobile rattled along Main street. Monnie felt self-conscious, riding alone. How strange to see the town exactly as she had felt it five weeks ago! Nothing had changed. What should she say to her mother—to Ray—about her sudden return? They would think it extremely odd. Well, she was in for that now, for all the explanations. They would be glad to see her and so perhaps would not ask too many questions. After she had satisfied them she would let Dan know she was back. Dan! Every man on the street, walking in her direction, might be Dan!

Old Marley seemed inclined to gossip. Driving cautiously along, he threw comments over his shoulder.

"Big excitement in town last night."

"There was?" Monnie wasn't really listening. She knew Marley and his "big excitements." Probably a dog fight.

"Yes, sir! Accident on the river road. People all bunged up." Marley chuckled dolefully.

"Really?" Monnie was thinking of her mother—what she would say to her.

"Took 'em to the hospital," the cabman related with relish. "Hurt bad, I guess."

She listened with her thoughts

far away. Once as the car took a corner cautiously she thought she saw a little group staring at her curiously. It was the usual crowd of ne'er-do-wells who hung around the fire engine house. Monnie shrugged her shoulders. The news of her return would soon be all about town.

"Mebbe you know 'em. Fact is, I'm sure you do," old Marley was droning on. "They was—"

Who the victims of the accident were the girl was destined not to know just then, as a milk wagon, drawn by a nervous horse, dashed across the path of the cab and Marley was too upset by the incident to chatter further. In another minute Monnie alighted at her own door.

She tried the knob, found the door locked and used the knocker vigorously. After an instant steps sounded and her mother appeared. Her eyes widened.

"Monnie! What on earth? You're not sick?"

"Never that!" Monnie embraced the small figure with vigour. "I'm fine and I've had a wonderful time! But I thought I'd loafed long enough."

"But Miss Anstice!" Mrs. O'Dare's brow wrinkled anxiously. "She found those old friends of hers in London and is going to see lots of them. She didn't mind."

It wasn't many mothers, Monnie reflected, who would ask so few questions as hers. Mrs. O'Dare appeared satisfied with the vague explanation though no doubt she was thinking her own thoughts.

"We've got a pick-up supper," she worried. "Nothing like what I would have had if I'd known you were coming."

The girl laughed joyously. This was getting home—having mother worry about what you ate and how you looked. She had missed it—oh, how she had missed it! The shabby little house, warm and cosy, the deep chairs, the books under the lamp. How familiar and yet how strange it all looked after the salons and cafes!

Monnie wondered fleetingly what

Arthur Mackenzie would have thought of her home. Then she tossed her head!

"Kay will be here soon," Mrs. O'Dare told her. "Mark's working at the Boston store. I told you that when I wrote, didn't I? He runs errands after school. He's saving his money for Christmas."

"And Bill?" Monnie was almost afraid to ask about Bill. Maybe he had gone off and married Angie while she'd been away.

"Bill is like a different person these days," said Monnie's mother. Her face lightened. "He's all off between him and Angie."

"Not really?" Monnie was incredulous. The mother nodded.

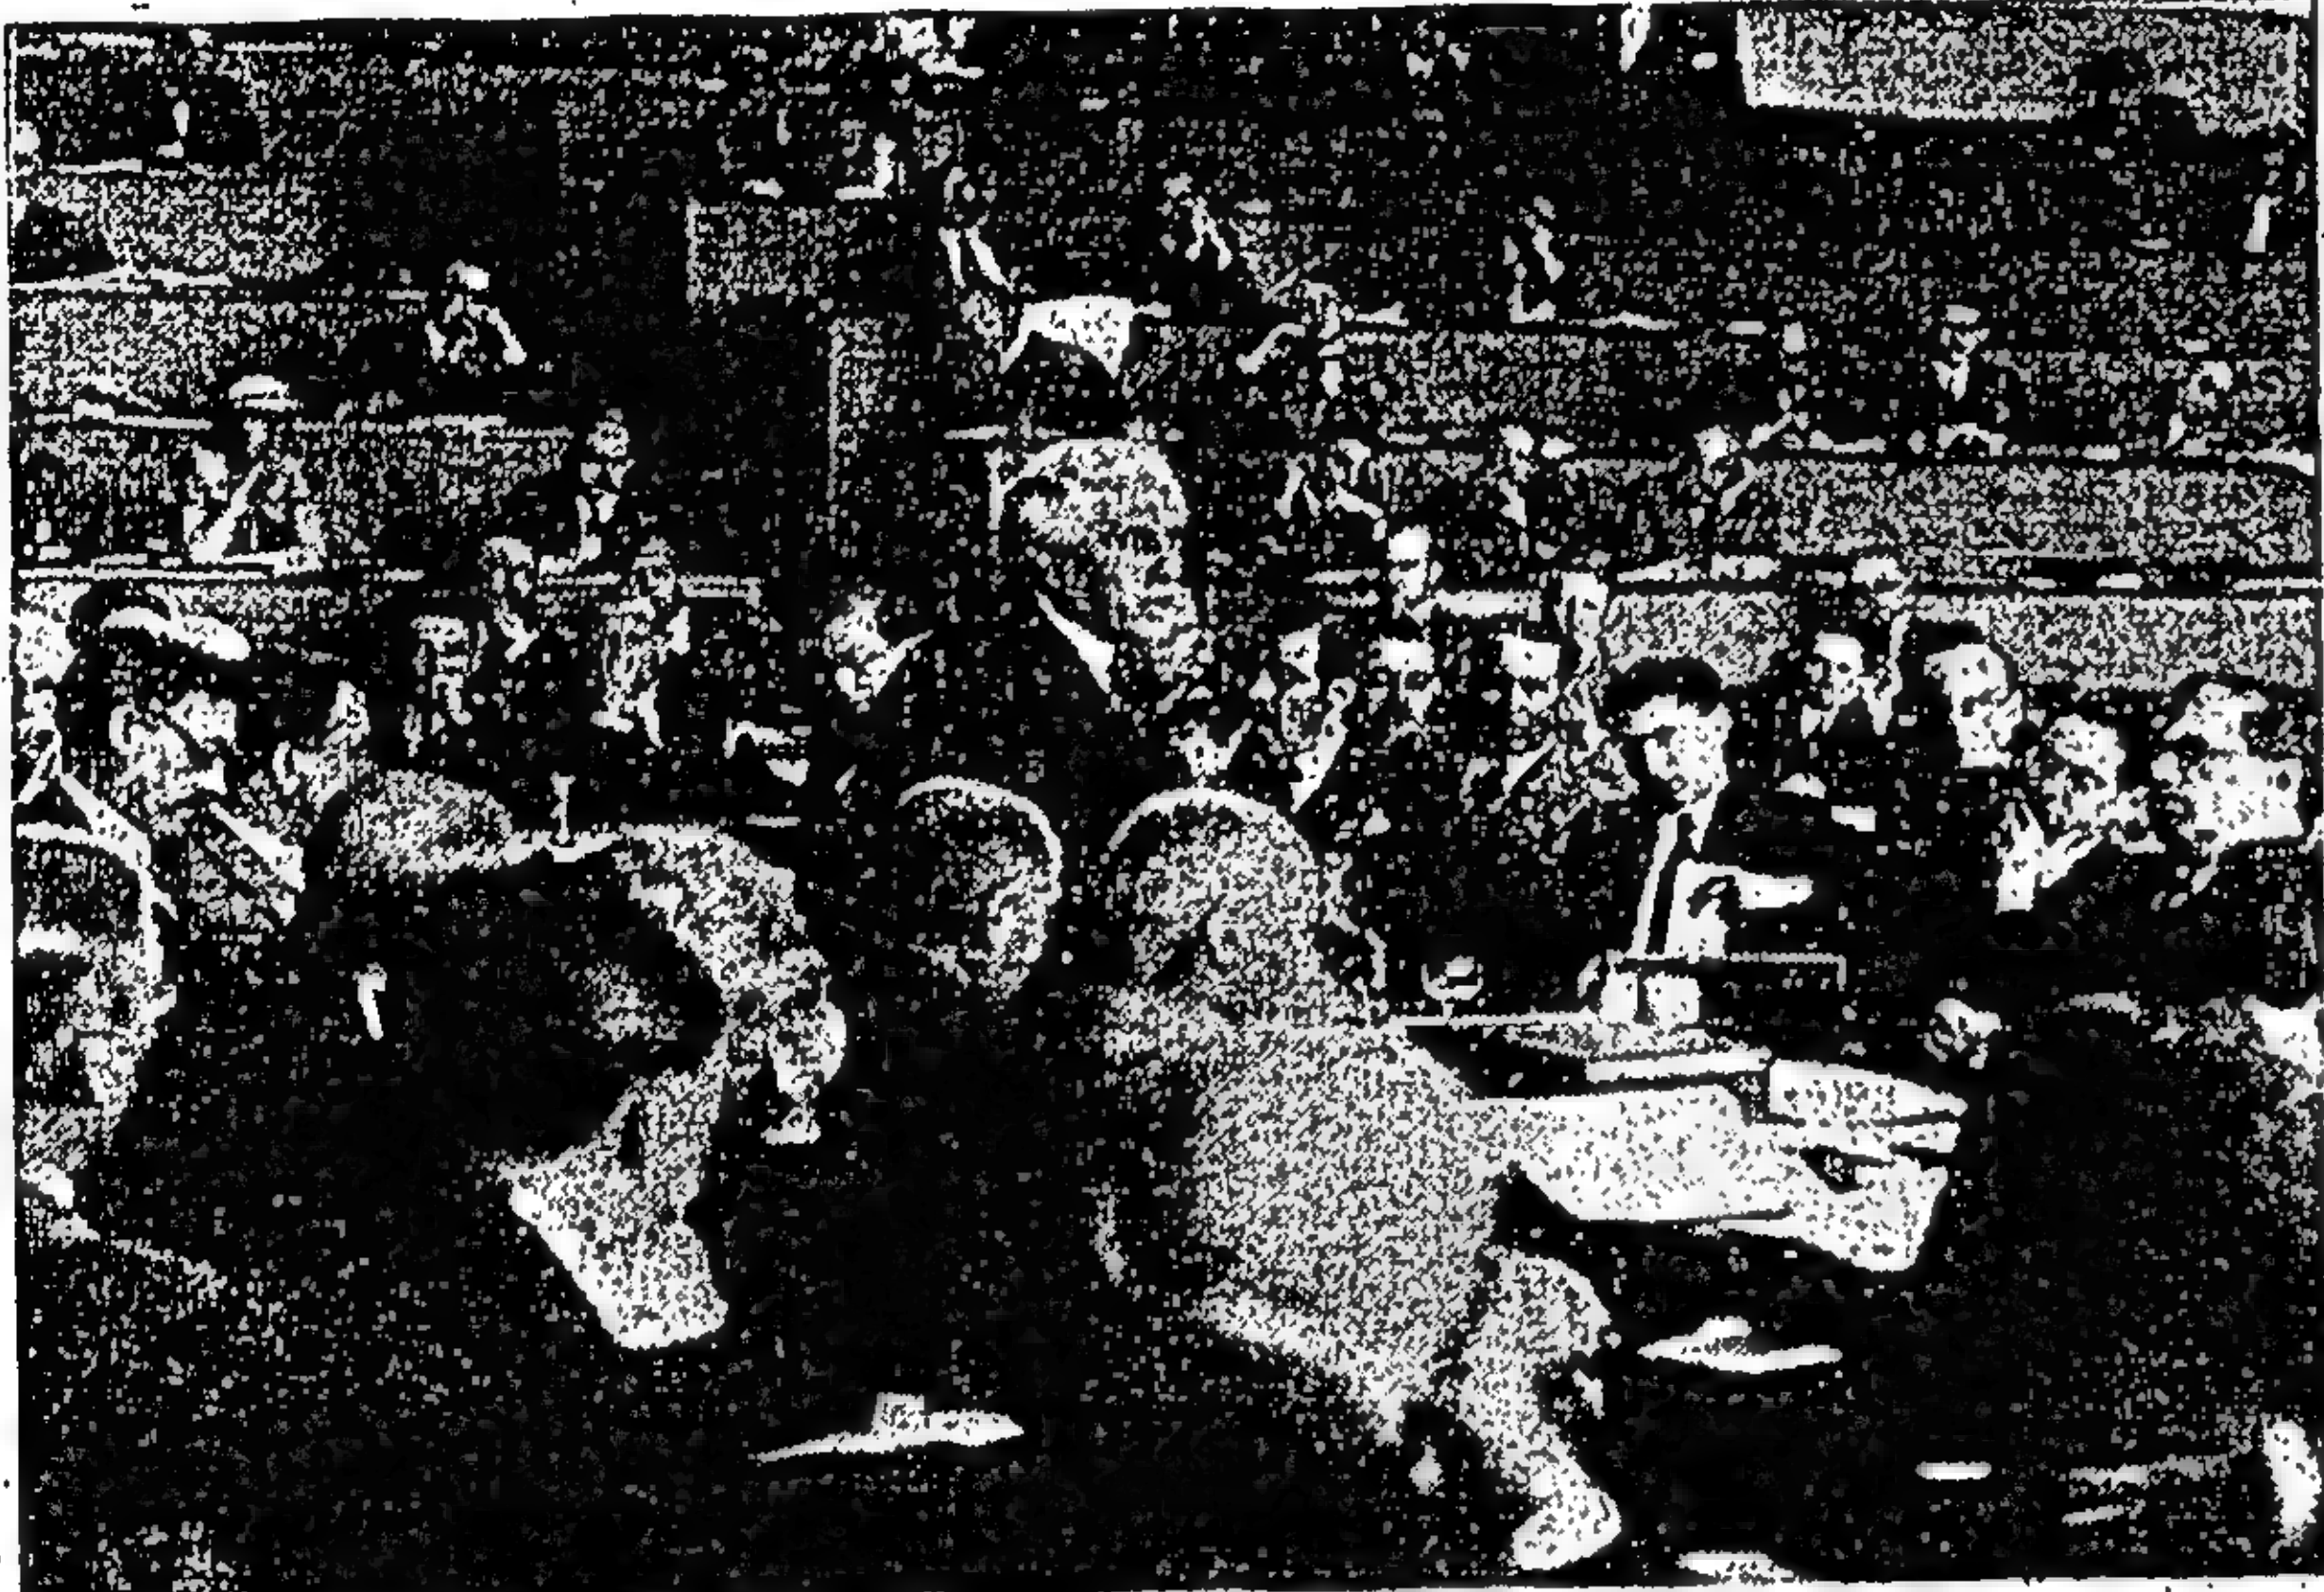

"Yes. Angie went back to her husband two weeks ago. She's been acting rather queerly lately. When Bill called her she was never in."

Do you know, Monnie, I really think she cared about Bill and that she decided this was the best way out for them all? She knows Stan—that's her husband's name—has a vicious temper and that he's make trouble for her. He never wanted to let her go, really, and had threatened Bill. You don't know how relieved I am about it all, although I'm sorry for the poor little thing! Angie really has some fine qualities."

"So that's one more mountain turned into a molehill," Monnie murmured, fluffing her hair before the hall mirror. "How I worried about that situation all summer, thinking Bill's life would be spoiled by such a marriage! You say he's taking it all right?"

"Yes, I think he's really relieved, deep down," the mother explained. "He was infatuated with Angie at first. She is pretty! And then the excitement of knowing she was forbidden fruit, another man's wife, kept up the feeling. You know how Bill is! Stubborn as a mule. He got the idea Angie was being mistreated and that he was her champion. When we accepted her—what else could we do?—the thrill wore off. He wasn't really in love with her and seeing her

CREATES REIGN OF TERROR

Simonstown. All traffic—trains, buses, motor-cars and pedestrians—was held up in Simonstown when a bullock ran amok and careered in and about the main road for an hour. It created a reign of terror. It chased everyone off the street, teased a pedestrian 15 feet, charged and damaged a motor-car and chased two European women into the kitchen at Admiralty House. The maddened animal charged every moving object and approaching the station tore down part of the fence before stampeding down the platform, preventing passengers from boarding a train. The train was delayed ten minutes. After injuring another man and a little girl, Petty Officer Frederick Kidd, of H.M.S. Rochester, took a rifle and with a magnificent shot at about 75 yards range dropped the animal in its tracks, killing it instantly.—Reuter.

YAU MATI FERRY
TICKET SYSTEM"RATHER PECULIAR"
SAYS MAGISTRATE

The system of checking tickets employed by the Yau mati Ferry Company was commented upon as being "rather peculiar" by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning, when dealing with Richard Ip, 20, unemployed of Siam, who was charged with travelling on a Yau mati ferry from Sham Shui Po to Hongkong without paying the fare.

Sub-Inspector Smith stated that defendant said he had a season ticket. When the vessel was under way, the Inspector made his usual inspection of tickets and when asked for his, defendant produced a ticket which bore the name of a friend. Enquiries were made on arrival at Hongkong. Defendant had no money at all.

A fine of $10 was imposed. The Magistrate—understand that with the Yau mati Ferry Company their system is rather peculiar for checking tickets. After the ferry leaves the wharf the passengers are asked for their tickets.

S. I. Kirby—That is right. It is not like the Star Ferry, where the passengers either pay or are ticket holders; and the inspectors know the season ticket holders. On the Yau mati Ferry they can say they lost their ticket between the box office and the ferry.

The Magistrate expressed the opinion that the Yau mati Ferry system rather encouraged youths to commit the offence.

SOLICITOR AND
TRADE MARKSWANTS OLD PRACTICE
RE-ESTABLISHEDPUBLICATION IN NEWS PAPERS

The hope that there would be a revival of the practice of publishing trade marks in English and Chinese newspapers, instead of in the Government Gazette only, was expressed by Mr. Leo D'Almada, senior, when, before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning, he appeared for the defence of the Star Battery Factory, Wanchai, in an adjourned summons taken out by the Merry Battery Factory, Portland Street, Yau mati, for alleged infringement of "Flying Hand" trade mark for batteries.

"Nobody reads the Government Gazette," said the solicitor. "The practice of publishing trade marks in an English and a Chinese newspaper has been eliminated—it may be a question of expenses, I don't know, but I personally hope that that practice will be revived."

Mr. D'Almada agreed with the magistrate that a trade mark appearing in the Gazette was a legal notice.

Mr. F. C. E. Rendall appeared for the complainant firm, who were one of the exhibitors at the local Empire Fair.

GAVE FALSE NAME.

Under cross-examination by Mr. D'Almada, Chan Pun-shek, manager of the Merry Battery Factory, said that he went to the defendant firm on July 4 because he had reason to believe that his firm's trade mark was infringed.

Mr. D'Almada—Do you agree with me that the defendant firm have been exporting these cells with that mark to Penang?

Witness—I knew of the exportation of the Flying Hand brand but I did not know the destination.

You called upon them with a view to see if they would sell you some samples?—Yes.

Witness admitted he gave a false name, and when asked by Counsel, why, said he was afraid he might be known to them.

I put it to you that he was selling them as samples, and that he had no power to sell them as they belonged to the Penang firm?—If he said that I would not have proceeded against him.

Witness knew Wong Chuen-wah to be the agent for a firm in Penang, and Wong patronised witness's firm. The orders he received from Wong were all prior to registration of his trade mark.

Witness admitted he made a block with the words Flying Hand for the purpose of exportation to the firm in Penang.

MAGISTRATE'S WARNING.

Witness became reticent with replies, and was warned by the Magistrate. "You have come here for protection of the Court against alleged infringement of your labels. You presumably come here with clean hands; then answer the questions properly. Misleading will do you no good."

Witness admitted an order for the sale of 6,000 Flying Hand labels to Penang on May 26 last. He explained that the people in Penang stated that the wrapping paper was inferior and they wanted certain English words, i.e. Flying Hand, printed on the paper.

Witness said he did not know the defendants had a similar block for the same purpose of supplying goods to the agent from Penang.

Re-examined by Mr. Rendall, witness said his firm was not agents for the Merry Battery Factory, U.S.A., and he did not know whether the defendant firm was. Witness had his label registered in Penang in the Kedar Government Gazette, through a friend. The Gazette was produced.

Hearing was adjourned to August 2 at 2.30 p.m.

THREE MILES A MINUTE TRAINSMOSCOW'S CONTRIBUTION TO SPEED AGE

Tests of a new train which hurries along a single rail at enormous speed are to be made in Moscow.

The single-rail is raised on trestles, and the cars are double—in the form of a saddle.

Each of these cars will hold from 80 to 100 passengers and will be equipped with two 750 h.p. motors. It is hoped that these "trains of the future" will achieve a speed of 150 miles per hour—more than three miles a minute.—Reuter.

PERIL FOR LOCAL

to which many members of the Chinese Medical Association have fallen victim.

HALF-LUNATIC?

Apart from these tricks by a half-lunatic who is still at large, there have been numerous cases when a sinister purpose seemed evident. The place selected is generally an empty flat, and a late hour fixed for calling the doctor.

Dr. Rowan, of China Building, saved himself possibly from a nasty experience by consideration of these two factors after he had arrived in a dark locality at West Point, from where nocturnal calls came with insistence.

COMBINED ACTION.

The necessity for combined action has become evident. After the attempt on Dr. Wong, of Kowloon, the Hongkong Chinese Medical Association held a meeting of its members.

"Ways and means were discussed," said Dr. Martha Hoahing, of China Building, "for evolving protective measures for the members, and we wrote to the Inspector-General of Police for advice and assistance."

As Secretary of the Medical Association, Dr. Hoahing subsequently received a reply from the head of the Police Force. It was briefly worded, suggesting that doctors when making these professional calls be accompanied by their chauffeurs.

ADVICE FOLLOWED.

"We followed the advice," said Dr. Chau Wal-cheung, "and you will see that in Dr. Ma's case he was accompanied not only by his

London, July 18.

A poignant story was told at the inquest at Dar-es-Salaam on Capt. Ussher and his wife, who met their death in a plane crash while on their honeymoon.

The police produced Capt. Ussher's logbook and a letter written to his mother indicating Capt. Ussher's extreme grief.

The logbook stated: "Got in bad spin and did best to right it but failed. We crashed and my darling wife was killed. She was an angel on earth. The accident was my fault and not the machine."

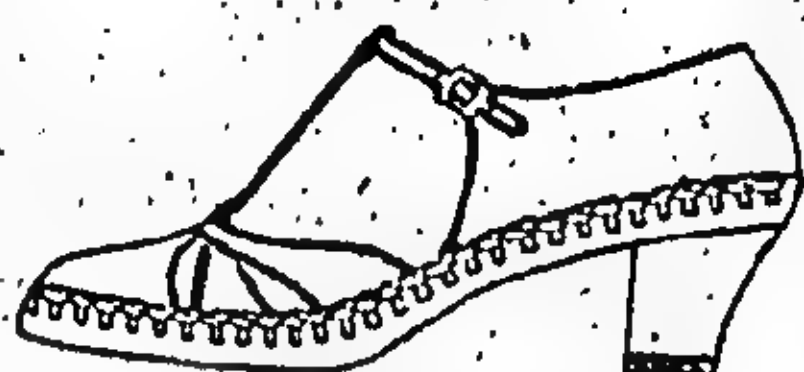

It was stated that Capt. Ussher was found in a sitting position with a revolver in his right hand and a wound in his right temple. The inquest was adjourned.

chauffeur but also by his office boy. We also see that he had taken the precaution of first sending the boy up to the floor to investigate before going up himself. And we see what happened."

The danger to the medical profession is only too well felt and Dr. Hoahing, who has received persistent nocturnal calls over the telephone has come to disregard them, fearing personal danger.

SIGNAL SYSTEM.

There have been a number of meetings since of the Association, and arising from exhaustive discussions on the subject, a code and signal system has been tentatively worked out by which it is possible for a danger signal to be exchanged

Obviously, the situation demands more vigorous action than has been taken hitherto, when members of the profession, said Dr. Hoahing, have to be content with advice, and suggestions for the most part consisting of "don't do this and don't do that."

THE IRISH
FREE STATE

Mediatory efforts in which General Smuts has played an important part promise to bring another attempt at Anglo-Irish rapprochement, ending the destructive economic war of the past twelve months or so. The onus is upon Mr. de Valera. If he continues to be Gandhiesque, suggesting that he has something new to contribute and revealing nothing but stubbornness, further discussion will be a sheer waste of time. The Irish leader has to make up his mind. If he believes Ireland can be made self-sufficing, he must take the plunge and not content himself with half measures. Britain is not likely to take the action he desires and push the Free State into a flowing tide of republicanism. At present, the Free State is making the worst of the situation. It is in the British Commonwealth but not of it. Irishmen can still travel in England without passports, but when they trade there they have to face a higher tariff than any foreigner. They are even cut off by the tariff wall from free commercial intercourse with Northern Ireland. The recent announcement that certain of the emergency tariffs imposed by the de Valera Government against imports from Britain would be made permanent seems to suggest that the belief in self-sufficiency has not died out despite the obvious facts. But is equally likely that it represented another gamble upon a colossal bluff. A policy of economic isolation for the Free State merely means the impoverishment of opportunity, the establishment of small-scale industries behind a tariff wall, thus immensely increasing the cost to the consumer. Old outlets for Ireland's principal products will be permanently closed. The opposite policy means early reconciliation with Britain. While the Free States wavers between these two platforms, there can be no stability. Britain, on her part, can make use of the opportunity which is to be created in Parliament this week to make it perfectly clear that no spirit of animosity governs her actions or intentions.

CLASS WAR

Just as many of Karl Marx's favourite maxims had their origin, unconsciously perhaps, in principles which he publicly denounced, so the bitter Nazi war upon Marxism in Germany is, in reality, a reflection of his attitude of mind. Essentially, the Marxian doctrine preaches class war, although it contemplates the uprising of the proletariat. But it is still class war when the positions are reversed when the revolt of the proletariat is anticipated, and the proletariat force their will upon the masses.

DAVIS CUP DRAMA

Britons the world over have every reason to be proud of their Davis Cup team's magnificent feat in beating America for the right of challenging France in the final round this week. America had so carefully prepared for the event, that the merit of the achievement is greatly enhanced. It was a dramatic tie. In fact so closely allied has drama become with international tennis meetings, that, aided by the quick reactions of the nervously interested crowds, they invariably provide incidents sufficient to earn them a place in the sporting archives. The 1933 Inter-Zone final between Britain and America contained its full share of such drama. The first day's successes of Austin and Perry only gave place in dramatic aspect to the collapse of Ellsworth Vines in the concluding tie of the series, when with the scores at two sets all and Perry leading 7-6 and 40-15 in the fifth set, the American champion faltered. It cost him the match, although there is small doubt that the Englishman would have won in any case. Incidentally, tennis historians have plenty of evidence that the game of 1888 demands greater mental and physical ability than that of 30 years ago.

NOTES OF THE DAY

Feng Yu-shiang's change of front is satisfactory. It saves unnecessary bloodshed. At no time did he have a reasonable chance of achieving any good in pin-pricking the Japanese and Manchukuo forces on the Jehol side of the Chahar frontier. His troops were ill-equipped, lacked ammunition, and supplies for a campaign of any length. Opposition to Japan upon the battlefield is vainglorious today. Vocal support from Canton and from patriots in North China is worse than useless unless it is accompanied by something more tangible. It merely encourages wild escapades. If China must seek revenge she must await the proper day.

LOCAL CURRENCY

The local currency controversy has been lying dormant since the Clegg Commission presented its Report, which is fortunate perhaps for the anti-stabilisation school of thought. Events of the last few months have strongly impressed the need for a stable dollar. Trade conditions are bad enough without the hampering effect of wild exchange fluctuations, brought about by circumstances quite beyond the Colony's control. A semi-panic in the wheat pit in Chicago sends the dollar toppling downwards. An optimistic report of the progress of the Pittman campaign supplies a swift upward trend. And the basic argument of the opponents of stabilisation, that Hongkong cannot afford to take such a step while China retains her present monetary system is entirely nullified by the Canton currency situation.

IN GERMANY TO-DAY

Ruthlessness and naivety are strange companions, but they figure together in the latest edicts of the Hitler Government in Germany. While Herr Hitler himself believes that he has achieved what is called in Berlin "totality," in placing public activities of every kind, from the trade unions to the church, under the control of the Nazis, thus suggesting an easing of coercive methods, Captain Goering announces the death penalty for anyone who manifests the slightest sign of hostility to the Hitler regime. Extenuating circumstances are not to be considered. The individual must entirely subordinate himself and his political convictions to the Nazi State. In its debasement of human liberty, this type of Fascism is as bad as its counterpart in a Communist society. And lest as a result further excesses should be committed by the storm troops, it is allowed to be known that "spies" have joined the Nazis inciting them to ill-treatment. It is fortunate that the edicts and the circulars indicate that an attempt also is to be made to discipline the storm troops.

WHAT THE NEW TRAFFIC ACT WILL MEAN TO THE LONDONER

By The Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison

The London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, has come into operation.

WHAT does the new Act mean to the Londoner?

I cannot be certain. What I say must be, to some extent, speculative. I am not going to run the new Board. But in the light of many years' study of London's transport problem and as the man who framed, introduced and "saw through" the Joint Select Committee Bill which (amended in ways I do not like by the present Government) has now become the London Passenger Transport Act, 1933—here goes.

What happens on Saturday is that all the Underground Railways, Buses, Trams and Motor Coaches of the 1,700 or so square miles of the London Transport Area (bigger than Greater London) are brought together as one undertaking.

They are socialised as a public concern under the London Passenger Transport Board, with Lord Ashfield and Frank Pick at its head. They have been socialised too.

Please give the new concern time to find its feet. It is a pity it starts in a trade slump.

Co-ordinated public service is to replace capitalist competition—or what was left of it. It doesn't matter much to the new Board whether you travel by tube, bus, coach or train. Nor does it matter much to the Board or the main line railways whether or not you use the suburban railways, for there is to be a pool between them.

There will be competition between these agencies of travel, but it will be inspired by the desire to render the best service; the emulation of achievement for the combined concern, rather than the mere raking in of money.

SELLING TRANSPORTATION.

In these circumstances I conceive that through booking and the inter-availability of tickets will be instituted. Things will have to be thought out. Experiments may have to be conducted. But I feel sure the tendency will be for the public to be sold transportation rather than journeys by particular vehicles.

Up to a point, it won't matter to the Board which way you travel—as long as you do travel.

Are you one of the great army of London's toilers by hand and by brain that is disgraced at Liverpool-street Station each morning? Yes?

Well, I am sorry for you. I used to be one of you myself. Not too bad a service, but dirty, dreary, smoky, crowded, depressing, irritating. You ought not to be sent to work like that. I often thought about you at the Ministry of Transport and talked to the L.N.E. Railway about you.

I believe your good day is coming. Competition has held up the electrification of all those lines. Now it will be possible to electrify.

Sir Ralph Wedgwood has assured us that all the plans are ready for submission to the Joint Committee of the main lines and the Board. And electrification means faster and more frequent services, cleaner stations and trains, more comfort.

So with the L.N.E. Railway suburban services out of King's Cross as far as Welwyn Garden City.

Moreover, electrification makes possible through running between the Underground and the main line railways.

"USE YOUR IMAGINATION"

The Metropolitan line from the Circle to New Cross and New Cross Gate will, I believe, join up with the Southern Electric and not merely drop you on to a nearby platform.

I hope the Central London Tube dead-end at Liverpool-street will go and so achieve through running with the old Great Eastern.

Use your imagination. Think what through running between tube and suburban main lines means.

In time it may mean the death of the London end of the suburban terminals and making the electrified "suburbans" as good as tubes with the daylight let in.

Will the trams go? Maybe—if the case is proved.

They have great value; our trams are good ones; they shift vast numbers. But they can't put you down at the kerb; many women don't like them; they are not mobile; and, in a breakdown, there is a block.

The Act gives freedom, subject to conditions. If the local authorities will consent to overhead wires, there is a lot to be said on appropriate routes for the trolley-bus which uses electricity produced from British coal. Clean, mobile, easy going. Have a look at them round Hampton Court way. The tramwaymen's interest must be safeguarded.

The important thing is that the general public service and not separate interests (even municipal) must now come first.

THE THAMES HIGHWAY.

And the River. Our River—Father Thames.

The Board has powers to run a river service. It is the best body to do it, for it can co-ordinate with all its other services. I hope it may be possible, but we must not rush the Board unfairly.

The boats must be motor and not steam. They must be open to the heavens in fine weather and as dry, warm and comfortable as a tube train in bad weather.

I hope they will come off, for I want to see Father Thames take us more to his bosom—without letting us get wet.

The motor coach controversy will be settled in the way I wanted.

The coach will be used on its merits. It will be an express bus and used on routes where the railways cannot deliver the goods.

I have said nothing about lower fares. If they become possible you will get them. I have never "featured" them in my case for the Bill.

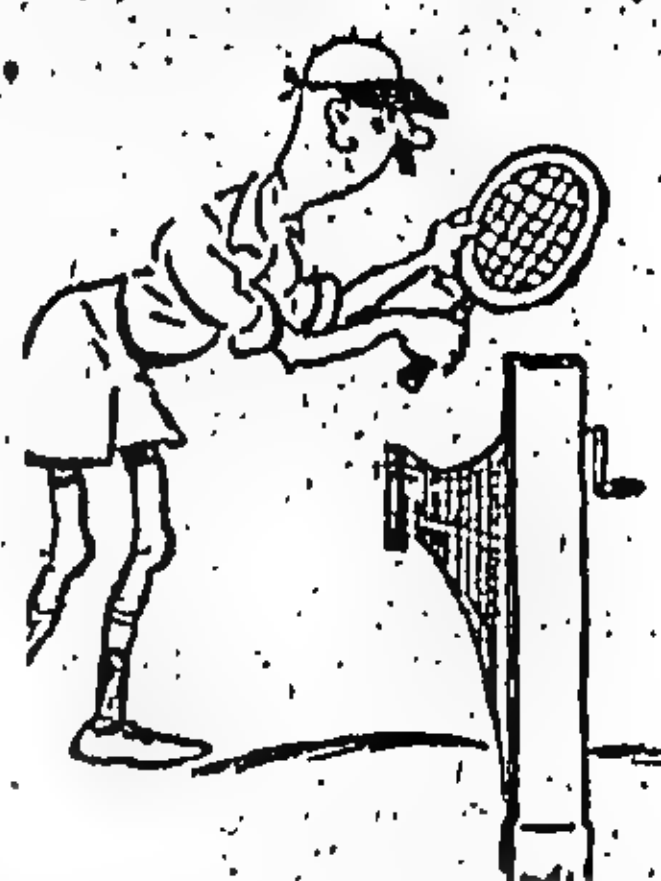

For I believe that facilities, development and service must come first.

And now I conclude. I have given you enough visions for one day.

The Very Idea!

SPORTING INSTINCTS

By Eddie "Larwood" Kelly.

NOW that the tennis season is upon us it is time for us to put on our football boots and take a hand in the revision of rules which becomes necessary at the close of each season of slaughter on the cricket field.

The players have patched up their bruises and the spectators have forgotten their disgust at the sight of their favourites dribbling down the whole length of the field so we can get together and fashion a few more laws to govern the game.

We ourselves were wont to disport ourselves on the green sward in the days of our youth, and flatter ourselves that we know how football should be played.

It's a man's game but that is not why we chucked it.

You see, we used to have spikes on the front of our boots to protect ourselves against attacks, and every time we kicked a ball they had to fetch a new one and take a player off.

It was some time before the referee noticed what was happening, but when we took a penalty kick and the ball unfortunately stuck around the toe of our boot and refused to budge, he blew his whistle and we woke up the following forenoon.

The case went before the F. A. Council and through a misunderstanding on the part of those who voted against us, our name was struck off the lists.

We were also summoned for malicious wounding but we managed to get our football team on the jury and they viewed the affair in its right light and we left the court an innocent man.

To avoid a repetition of such a deplorable incident, we suggest that hitting below the belt be barred in future. This would cut the leg theory right out of the game.

Kicking with both feet together should be abandoned as the action lacks style. In fact, all rough play should be treated as an infringement.

This does not include hitting the referee, as it is better that the boys should take it out of a paid official rather than one of the other team, who is merely playing for the love of the game.

Referees, we suggest, should be chosen for their intelligence and not for their ability to play Schubert's Serenade on the gramophone, and to add refinement to the game it would be better if they could borrow a dress suit to wear in action.

Football being essentially an open-air pastime the players should wear as little as possible. One team could play in the altogether and boots, and their opponents could distinguish themselves by playing in boots and the altogether, weather and the police permitting.

Shooting at the goal within 20 yards is unfair to the goal-keeper, and to counter-balance this rule, the goal-keeper should be forbidden to pull faces at the players.

The cap is rather effete and a touch of dignity could be added to the scene if the goal-keeper wore a bowler hat.

Players with thin legs could wear leggings and in rainy weather might be allowed an umbrella. For those whose natural adornment demands it, hair pins would be permitted but these should not be used as a weapon of offence.

When making up their fixture lists secretaries should not write to each other as "Dear Sam" or "Dear Jim" unless they mean it and all communication to the Association must be enclosed in scented envelopes.

Players who collide with each other on the field of battle or kick the ball out of turn will, of course, do the gentlemanly thing and apologise. Speaking to the referee should be barred—actions speak louder.

A player receiving the raspberry from male spectators may return it at his own risk, but on receiving it from a female spectator he should retire to the pavilion and don some clothes.

Editors, send The Sports Editor your suggestions and we will make the best of them.

H. W. Austin.

DOUBLE HANDED TRANSACTION

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST FOUR WOMEN

A LITTLE CHILD THE VICTIM

A six months old male child was the victim of a transaction for his sale in which his mother and three other married women are alleged to have taken part.

The mother, Ho Shi, and the second defendant, Chan Kam, were charged with having taken part in a transaction to transfer the possession of the child for a valuable consideration on May 22, and the mother was further charged together with Lau Ho and Chan Yung with having taken part in a similar transaction on July 7.

All defendants appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning.

The story for the prosecution was that on the 21st. of last month the mother, accompanied by the second defendant came to the S. C. A. stating that she wished to present the child to the second defendant. Both women were asked to inform their husbands and appear the following day, but they failed to turn up. On July 20 Chan Kam's husband came to the S. C. A. and reported that Ho Shi had re-sold the child to the third defendant, who in turn had presented it to the fourth defendant, her daughter-in-law.

The first and second defendants were both acquainted with each other, and Chan Kam had loaned Ho Shi $62. After they left the S. C. A., the first defendant is alleged to have presented the child to the second defendant in lieu of that loan.

RESOLD FOR $70. Later the husband of the second accused heard that the first defendant had re-sold the child to the third woman for $70. The second defendant then asked for the return of her money, but was refused. The second defendant is alleged to have given the fourth woman $30, and asked her to pay the first defendant this money on July 21 on which day she would take the child.

The child's mother, said Sub-Inspector Fraser, appeared to be the prime mover in the double-hand action. It did not appear to be a bona fide adoption as the child was handed over to the second defendant in settlement of a loan.

The mother admitted having accepted $70 from the third defendant, but denied the first charge. The second defendant also denied the first charge, while the third accused admitted having paid $70 to the first defendant, the fourth woman admitted having received the child from the third defendant, her mother-in-law.

Mr. Schofield said he had better take evidence on the first charge, as they all seemed to admit the second.

Hearing was fixed for Thursday morning. The first defendant was allowed bail in $100 and the other three in $50 each.

EXCHANGE OF VIEWS WITH URUGUAY

AUSTIN AND PERRY ON TOP IN KEEN GAMES

Thousands of frenzied tennis fans, who through four sets and thirteen games had cheered the wonderful rallies, and gaped in amazement at the skill and artistry of the players, were stunned into silence when Ellsworth Vines, facing defeat at the hands of F. J. Perry in the last match of the Davis Cup tie between Britain and America yesterday, suddenly collapsed after serving two double faults and was carried from the court in a fainting condition.

It was the climax to the most thrilling exhibition of tennis ever seen at the Stade Roland Garros. It gave Britain her fourth victory of the series and left her worthy challengers to France, holders of the Davis Cup.

Austin clinched the issue for Britain in the first match of the third day's play, when he beat Wilmer Allison in four sets. Austin indulged in artistic tennis to achieve the performance.

But all the thrills were left for the Perry-Vines encounter. Perry, with recollections of Vines's succession of victories against him in America last year, was obviously tuned up for the occasion, and it was generally felt that with his fighting spirit aroused, Perry was the most dangerous opponent the American champion could meet.

And so it proved. Here is a thumb-nail sketch of one of the most extraordinary tennis matches in the history of the Davis Cup. Vines, serving with terrific power, won the first set at 6-1.

Perry, a veritable genius in his exploitation of passing drives, countered by winning the second set to love.

The Californian, still playing at the top of his form, broke through to capture the third set at the tenth game.

TERRIFIC PACE.

The fourth set was a fascinating battle of craft and skill. Vines leading 3-2, fell and injured his ankle. He carried on and actually led 6-5, Perry, displaying more confidence than at any other period, broke through to win at 7-5.

Perry, with an energy which astounded the onlookers, set a terrific pace in the fifth set. As the stanza progressed, so the dramatic climax was worked up until the Englishman led 7-5. Vines served. He led 15-love. Perry levelled up to 15-all. The American served two double faults and Perry had match point. Vines served again and then without any warning collapsed on the ground in a dead faint. The gruelling heat and the strain had proved too much for him.

AUSTIN'S VICTORY.

Wilmer Allison was given the task of saving the match for America when he met "Bunny" Austin, conqueror of Vines, in the first match of the day.

But the task proved too much for him and the Englishman, playing perfect tennis—the type of tennis which will be written about in the text books—won the tie for Britain in four sets.

The scores in the Englishman's favour read:

6-2, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4.

Austin was brilliant in his court tactics, and sent over a stream of beautiful drives of varied pace and placement.

DOGGED ALLISON.

He showed a much wider range of strokes than Allison, who, however, played in dogged fashion.

The American hit especially well on the forehand and served very powerfully, with a disconcerting spin.

Allison was seen at his best in the second set, which he won after Austin had led 6-5 and 7-4. Allison's will-power and sheer grit pulled him through, but the effort cost him dearly.

The Englishman regained all his confidence in the succeeding sets and was complete master of the situation.

AUSTIN IRRESISTIBLE.

He won the third set mainly as a result of his snappy close up volleying. His sharply angled net shots left Allison helpless.

The American made a final bid for recovery in the fourth set. Austin took a two-love lead and Allison levelled up at two-all. Austin went away again for a 4-2 advantage, only to be pulled back to four-all. After that, Austin was irresistible and he volleyed his way through the next two games for the set and match.—Reuter.

PERRY V. VINES.

Although the result had already been decided, there was no lack of interest when Vines and Perry took the court for the final game of the series.

The opening exchanges gave some indication of the terrific struggle which was to follow, but no one was prepared for the collapse of Vines just at the moment Perry reached match point in the fifth set.

Perry was leading Vines 1-6, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5 and 40-15 on the latter's service, when the Californian fainted.

A BAD FALL.

Perry was the first to the rescue, pouring water on his opponent.

Vines had a bad fall in the fourth set which appeared to have left him shaken, but he went on without any perceptible difference in his play.

The American failed to respond to immediate treatment and he was carried from the court. He regained consciousness after ten minutes and fully recovered.

INEXORABLE LAW.

The laws provide, however, that when a player receives treatment on the court, he is considered to have abandoned the match.

That the incident should have occurred was a thousand pities as Perry, who was superb, showed that he was well able to beat Vines at his best in Paris.

Vines served with smashing shots and drove with terrific power. Nevertheless he was guilty of at least a dozen double faults.

PERRY'S GENIUS.

Perry was a real genius in the second set, piercing the American's defence at the net with widely-flung passing shots.

Vines led 3-2 in the fourth set and then stumbled in trying to retrieve a difficult shot. He hurt his ankle, but recovered, actually to lead at the eleventh game. But Perry broke through to win the set.

Perry, brimful of energy, took a lead of 7-5 in the fifth set and then Vines twice double-faulted before collapsing.—Reuter.

STEALS LETTER PRESS

SHOP COOLIE SENT TO PRISON

Bound over in April last for false pretences Wong Wah, 15 years, shop coolie, was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones this morning with the theft of a quantity of letter press from the Local Printing Press, where he was employed. Mr. M. F. Billimoria appeared as the complainant.

The property stolen weighed about 55 pounds, stated Sub-Inspector Smith, who added that defendant was seen to take a bucket containing the letter press, out of the works, and was apparently going to hand it over to the publisher's cart. He sold the lot.

On this morning's charge, defendant was sent to prison for two months, and forfeited his bond of $50, failing which he is to undergo an additional six weeks' gaol.

A SOLICITOR'S MISTAKE

IN DRAWING UP AN AGREEMENT

$2,000 CLAIM

A solicitor's mistake in drawing up an agreement was the cause of a claim for rectification of a clause, and for $2,000 due under the rectified agreement, made before the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, at the Supreme Court this morning.

Plaintiff was A. A. Rumjahn, of 1, Shui Tai Terrace, Stubbs Road, and he was represented by Mr. H. C. Macnamara instructed by Messrs. Johnson, Stokes, and Masters.

Neither the defendant, Francis Techong, merchant, of Studio d'Art 24A, Des Voeux Road, nor his solicitors, Messrs. Lo and Lo were present at the hearing though a formal denial of the claim had been entered.

It was stated that the parties were in partnership from March 22 until November 8 last year when they came to a verbal agreement to dissolve the partnership. Defendant was to take over the stock-in-trade of Studio d'Art and L'Art Moderne and carry on the business, paying over 10 per cent. of all profits on the former for a period of two years. In addition defendant was to pay plaintiff a monthly sum of $1,000 during the same period, the first payment to be made on December 10, 1932.

AGREEMENT NOT CLEAR.

Mr. D. V. Stevenson of Messrs. Deacons, was instructed to draw up an agreement embodying the verbal arrangements and when this was done both parties attached their signatures. In the common belief that the agreement was good. In fact it mistated a portion of the verbal arrangement relating to the payment of the money and although it was not clear what the agreement did mean, the solicitor admitted it was a mistake on his part.

Defendant denied that the clause referred to required rectification and that two monthly instalments of $1,000 were due.

Mr. Stevenson in the witness box agreed that he had attended under subpoena. The parties came

With the Bowling Green, Craggengower and Recrelo, all suffering defeats in the First Division, and the K.B.G.C. second string losing in the Second Division, there were enough surprises pulled out of hat in the Bowls League on Saturday to keep a conjurer interested.

The effect on the league tables was inconsiderable, except that Civil Service in both sections improved their positions and are now strong challengers in Division 2.

The Recrelo definitely bade farewell to their championships aspirations in the senior section.

HEADLEY SCORES BRILLIANT CENTURY WEST INDIES MAKE AUSPICIOUS START IN THE SECOND TEST

A masterly display of batting by G. Headley and Roach, who added 200 runs for the second wicket, placed the West Indies in a strong position at the end of the first day of the second Test match with England which opened on Saturday at Old Trafford.

Both batsmen topped the three-figure mark, Headley remaining undefeated when stumps were drawn. By that time the visitors' scores had been advanced from 26 for 1 to 333 for 6.

A feature of the day's play was the brilliant wicket-keeping of Ames. Only six extras were shown in the big West Indies score.

The match commenced in sunny weather and the wicket was in a perfect condition.

Clark, the Northants bowler, replaced Bowes, who was injured, in the English side.

The West Indies team consisted of C. A. Roach, L. Barrow, E. L. G. Headley, G. G. Grant, O. C. de Costa, E. Achong, A. E. Martindale and V. A. Valentine.

Grant, the West Indian captain, won the toss and elected to bat, sending in his opening pair, Roach and Barrow, bowled by Valentine from Clark. His contribution was 14.

HUNGARY JUST PIPPED

LA CROIX THE HERO

WINS THREE TIES

Belgium and Germany qualified for the next round of the elimination tournament for the 1934 Davis Cup competition during the week-end.

La Croix settled the issue for Belgium against Hungary by beating Gabrowitz in straight sets.

The Belgian was in irresistible form and completely outplayed the Hungarian.

In the final match of the series, De Kohring of Hungary defeated De Borman in a strenuous four sets match which went to 43 games.

The scores were:
La Croix (Belgium) beat Gabrowitz 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

De Kohring (Hungary) beat De Borman 7-5, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

La Croix and de Borman (Belgium) beat De Kohring and Gabrowitz 2-6, 6-1, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Dublin, July 22. Germany won the doubles against Ireland, who are thus eliminated by three straight rubbers. Von Cramm and Nourney (Germany) defeated McGuire and McVeagh (Ireland) 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.—Reuter.

PRESENT SYSTEM UPHOLD

Meeting in Favour of Resolution

Paris, July 22. Contrary to expectations, this morning's meeting of Davis Cup nations voted by seven against six to maintain the present "eliminary" system in the European Zone.

There was no question regarding any alteration to the rules to establish a Pacific Zone.

Last year the International Federation authorised the new scheme to begin in 1933, whereby only zone finalists of the Davis Cup matches would enter the 1934 competition.

All others were to compete in a qualifying contest held in July, August, and September of this year, and then only the semi-finalists would be admitted for the 1934 competition.

This system makes it impossible for a nation which did not compete one year to challenge in succeeding years.—Reuter.

H.K.I.A.S.A. TO HOLD EVENTS

The close to the first season of the Hongkong International Amateur Swimming Association will be provided by the staging of the Colony Championships. These it is announced, will probably take place on September 7, 8 and 9, in the European Y.M.C.A.'s pool, if permission be granted.

Judging from the success of the Association's gala on June 24, these championships should attract much interest.

At the meeting of the H.K.I.A.S.A. Council on Friday, the programme was discussed and the following events for men were approved:

50 Yards Free Style; 100 Yards Free Style; 220 Yards Free Style; 440 Yards Free Style; 880 Yards Free Style; 1760 Yards Free Style; 200 Yards Team Race (Teams of four); 200 Yards Breast Stroke; 100 Yards Back Stroke.

The following events were decided upon for ladies:

50 Yards Free Style; 100 Yards Free Style; 440 Yards Free Style (Providing there are four entries); 200 Yards Breast Stroke; 100 Yards Back Stroke; 200 Yards Team Race (Teams of four); Diving (Provided there are four entries).

In addition there will be a water polo game between two teams which will be decided at a later date by the Finance Committee, who have the arrangements in hand.

THE DUAL CONTROL.

As a result of the H.K.I.A.S.A. Council's decision to hold their own Championships in September, the question of the Colony Championships to be held under the auspices of the Victorian Recreation Club now arises.

Rule 9 of the Association Rules reads:

"Clubs and players under the jurisdiction of this Association shall not take part in any competition organised by non-affiliated Clubs or Associations not recognised by this Association."

This ruling makes it impossible for any of the first-class swimmers in Clubs recognised by the Association to take part in the Colony Championships held under the auspices of the V.R.C. who are not an affiliated Club.

The Championships to be held by the V.R.C. will only be confined to clubs which are not affiliated to the new Association—Chinese Athletic, Fukien A.A., Chinese Y.M.C.A., and the Army.

FORMALLY INAUGURATED AT PEKING

Peking, July 22.
The North China War Relief Commission was inaugurated yesterday morning in the presence of seventeen members, with General Huang Fu in the Chair.
Although in a very weak condition, General Ho Ying-ching managed to attend the meeting and administer the oath to members on behalf of the Central Government.
The meeting elected Mr. Yu Hsueh-ching, Z. S. Blen and Y. S. Djang as Directors of the three sections of Emergency Relief, Rural Rehabilitation and Finance, respectively.
The Commission has already received a million dollars from Nanking for relief work and it will float bonds to the value of $4,000,000 in North China.—Reuter.

IONIA EARTHQUAKE.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED IN LATEST DISASTER

Constantinople, July 23.
A disastrous earthquake in Ionia, Turkish Asia Minor, has devastated the whole of the district south-east of Smyrna, in the Gulf of Smyrna.
Preliminary reports indicate that a least thirty people were killed, the number of injured running into many hundreds. Large areas have been desolated, and an acute food shortage exists.
Red Cross units are being rushed by land and sea to the rescue of the unfortunate people.
Earthquakes, doing considerable damage, are a frequent phenomena in Asia Minor, particularly in the district now affected, although during the past few years it has enjoyed some immunity.

DEATH PENALTY

NEW NAZI LAW FOR CIVIL OFFENCES.

Berlin, July 23.
Death will be the penalty in future for any action against public officials or Storm Troopers.

The extreme penalty will also be imposed upon any person guilty of the distribution of so-called atrocity propaganda imperilling the dignity and existence of the State.

These measures were announced by Dr. Goering after an emergency meeting of Ministers, Governors and Nazi leaders in Berlin to-day.

A Bill, making the imposition of the extreme penalty legal for civil crimes, will be submitted to the Cabinet immediately.

Dr. Goering hurriedly returned to Berlin from a holiday yesterday in order to attend the meeting.

In a statement Herr Goering said that these measures have become necessary because it is becoming evident that Communism and the enemies of the State were only partly conquered.
He added that a new special Chamber of Public Prosecutors would ensure that death sentences would be carried out as soon as possible, regardless of any extenuating circumstances.

All Nazi offenders in the past would be pardoned, but this implied henceforth that unauthorized acts would be an offence against the Nazi State.

Herr Goering's hurried return to Berlin is a sequel to the alarming discontent within the ranks of the Storm Troopers owing to Hitler's declaration that the "revolution had ended."—Reuter.

Death Penalty Provisions.

Berlin, July 23.
The Bill which Dr. Goering has submitted to the Cabinet provides the death penalty for attempting, inciting, assisting or planning to kill Public Prosecutors, police officials, Storm Troopers, for treasonable writing or inciting against the State or for the infringement of the regulations against the formation of parties or associations.—Reuter.

NAZI ATROCITIES.

Allegation That "Spies" Incited Ill-Treatment Campaign.

Berlin, July 23.
The allegation that "spies" had joined the Nazis and incited them to ill-treat their opponents in order to "give colour to the atrocity lies" has been made in a Nazi Party circular.

The circular calls upon members of the Nazi Party to free themselves from any possibility of contamination by such subversive elements, declaring that any Nazi who in future lends himself to such activities will be put in a concentration camp.—Reuter.

THE WATERFRONT.

DOLLAR PRESIDENT GRANT'S SAILING ADVANCED

The Dollar liner President Grant will arrive here at 10 o'clock this morning from San Francisco. She berths at the Kowloon wharf.

The local office of the Dollar Line advises that the President Grant is now scheduled to sail from this port at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, instead of 6 o'clock as previously announced.

On her homeward voyage, the President Grant has been advanced 48 hours. She will arrive at 6 a.m. on Sunday from Manila and will sail for San Francisco via Shanghai and ports at 8 a.m. on the following day. This change of sailing will enable her to fill up the gap caused in the Dollar schedule by the transference of the liner President Taft.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

There is as much adventure in business as there is in leading an expedition into hitherto unexplored wilds. This is the opinion of Jesse L. Lasky who speaks with the authority of one who has more than 20 years' experience as one of the leading figures in the motion picture industry, as well as with the authority of an explorer who had ventured into unknown jungles.

Lasky is adventuring, after twenty years as production head of Paramount, in an entirely new field for him, independent production for Fox Film, and says he is getting as big thrill from it as he did when he led an expedition into the Central American jungles several years ago, blazing a trail through territory never before explored by white men.

"Zoo in Budapest" is his first production for Fox. Gene Raymond and Loretta Young are co-stars in the film now at the Kings Theatre.

"Just My Luck"

"Just My Luck" is generous in the number of laughs it gives you, because Ralph Lynn develops into a bombastic "go-getter" from being a timid spineless music teacher—almost afraid of his own shadow, and certainly afraid to walk under a ladder. In this new picture his characterisation differs considerably from the usual "silly ass" role with which we have become familiar. To add to the attractiveness, Ralph Lynn is rarely off the screen and "Just My Luck" with its charm of setting and beauty of rural backgrounds, is really good, wholesome entertainment of a pleasing light character. "Just My Luck" is now playing at the Central Theatre.

"Strictly Personal"

Marjorie Rambeau's real-life romance, which took her out of the movies just after making a sensational screen debut, has more of the elements of the dramatic in it than any play or film in which she has ever appeared. Miss Rambeau returns to the screen to join Eddie Quillan and Dorothy Jordan in "Strictly Personal," expose of the "get-acquainted club," racket, coming on Thursday to the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Rambeau was persuaded to come out of retirement to play the leading feminine role. She is cast as the wife of Edward Ellis, of "I am a Fugitive" fame, who plays the role of an escaped convict. Together with Dorothy Jordan, their ward, they operate a "get-acquainted club" of the better sort. The character of the enterprise changes radically, however, when Louis Calhern, a "con man," recognizes Ellis, and under threat of exposure, forces himself in as a partner. He devotes his attentions to an apparently wealthy widow. When she confesses that she is actually penniless, he kills her in a burst of rage.

The picture reaches a breathless climax in his attempt to escape—to force Miss Jordan to flee with him, and to place the blame for the murder on Ellis.

"The Third String"

George Pearson, who directed the W. V. Johnston film "The Third String," which will be shown at the Kings Theatre next change, is Britain's oldest director. He has been in production since 1913, and before that wrote film scenarios.

For the production he had constructed a replica of a typical waterside inn, complete with all the usual appurtenances and peopled by a crowd of as authentic longshore characters as one could wish to see.

The big climax of "The Third String" is the boxing match between Sandy Powell and Alf Goddard. Handled and played with a true sense of broad comedy and burlesque, it evoked peals of laughter from the studio hands, who voted it as good as a day's pay—almost.

Alf Goddard plays the role of the ferocious bruiser, "Bill Lumm," whom Sandy accidentally knocks out. Other players are Mark Daly as Peter Russet, and Charles Paton as Sam Small.

"What! No Beer?"

The riotous comedy pair, Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, make their latest co-starring appearance on the Queen's screen in "What! No Beer?" a screaming satire on the American beer controversy. Buster and "Schnozzle" run their own brewery in this picture and consequently all the mechanism of a modern brewery was installed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and set in operation, including a 1,000-barrel boiler, vats and bottling machines.

all the time quite casually rubbed off the bloom.

"You're a wise woman," Monnie marvelled. "You see through all of us."

Kay burst in, interrupting this colloquy. Kay in a brown suit with a green beret set saucily on the side of her bright curls. How pretty she was! Prettier than anyone Monnie had seen since she'd been away.

"You wretch!" Kay was exclaiming. "Barging in like this without letting us know!"

"I thought you liked surprises," Monnie avoided Kay's penetrating glance.

Kay's eyes flew to her mother's. "Has she heard?"

Monnie saw the quick frown and shake of the head her mother gave in return. Curiously rose in a tide.

"Heard what? What have you been keeping from me?"

"It's nothing." Her mother spoke almost apologetically. "Nothing you ought to be greeted with on your arrival home at any rate."

"Bad news?" Monnie's heart began to beat fast.

"She might as well know," Kay informed her mother gravely. Then she turned to Monnie: "Dan Cardigan was hurt in a motor accident last night," she said. "He's in the hospital."

Monnie got to her feet a bit unsteadily. "I—there must be something I can do! Can I see him?"

"I don't think so," Kay said, slowly. "It's serious. Internal injuries—and they're afraid of concussion. This morning when I talked to someone in the office there was a report they might operate."

Monnie clenched her hands at her sides. "I've got to see him," she said slowly, painfully. "He wrote me—I got the letter in London. Mother, you may as well know it. Dan is the only one I have ever loved. I came home to marry him."

"Marry—?" Mrs. O'Dare flashed again that signal glance to Kay. "Tell her," she said quietly.

Kay looked away compassionately. "Dan and Sandra Lawrence were married by a justice of the peace last night," she said tonelessly. "Half an hour before the accident."

COMMISSIONER SAFE.

GENERAL HUANG BACK IN NANKING

Nanking, July 23.
General Huang Mu-sung, Pacification Commissioner for Sinking, returned here yesterday by aeroplane, accompanied by four of his subordinates. Immediately after he stepped down from his aeroplane General Huang was surrounded by newspaper men at the aerodrome.

General Huang declined to discuss the Sinking situation, but promised to give a press reception shortly in order to make a detailed statement regarding the Sinking trouble.

One of Gen. Huang's counselors subsequently interviewed by the press, explained that Gen. Huang's telegram to Nanking were purposely delayed by the local military authorities, thus giving rise to some anxiety regarding the Commissioner's safety.—Reuter.

opposite Ronald Colman in "Cynara," was cast in the leading feminine role. Miss Barry is the Australian musical comedy star who crossed the Pacific to seek stage fame on Broadway but was seized upon as potential starring material for Hollywood. The cast also includes such well known players as Roscoe Ates, John Miljan, Henry Armetta, Edward Brophy, Charles Dunbar and Charles Giblyn.

CEMENT WORKS INCIDENT

ASSAULT FOLLOWS DISMISSAL

Believing that the head electrician was the cause of his dismissal from the Green Island Cement, Tsang Chung went to the Company's works on Saturday morning and attacked him.

Charging the man with assault, Inspector Langley said complainant went to Hunghom Police station on Saturday in a state of great agitation. He told the Police that about three weeks ago, the Green Island Cement Company dismissed three electricians, including defendant. Defendant believed that the head electrician of the Company had something to do with his dismissal. He returned to the works on Saturday morning, seized complainant by the throat and produced a knife.

Inspector Langley said the Police were satisfied that complainant had nothing to do with the dismissals. He produced a letter from the manager of the works showing why defendant had been discharged.

After hearing the evidence, his Worship convicted defendant and bound him over in the sum of $50 to be of good behaviour for a year.

STOLE SOLDER FROM BUS CO.

DEFENDANT CLAIMS RIGHT TO STUFF

Tsang Lu, an electrician employed by the China Motor Bus Company Ltd., appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones this morning at the Central Police Court charged with the theft of 5 lbs. of solder from the Company's works, Watson Road. He was fined $50 or six weeks.

Defendant claimed that part of the solder belonged to the old company and he had been told it was not wanted.

Mr. Wynne-Jones—There are buses belonging to the old company, but you are not allowed to take those away!

Ip Yan Sau, Traffic superintendent of the China Bus Co., said that no instructions were given for the removal of the property. Defendant's salary was $30 a month.

a mad woman and created a disturbance by shouting.

Warnings were issued to these people on several occasions, but they took no heed with the result that three constables were sent out to arrest the rowdiest ones.

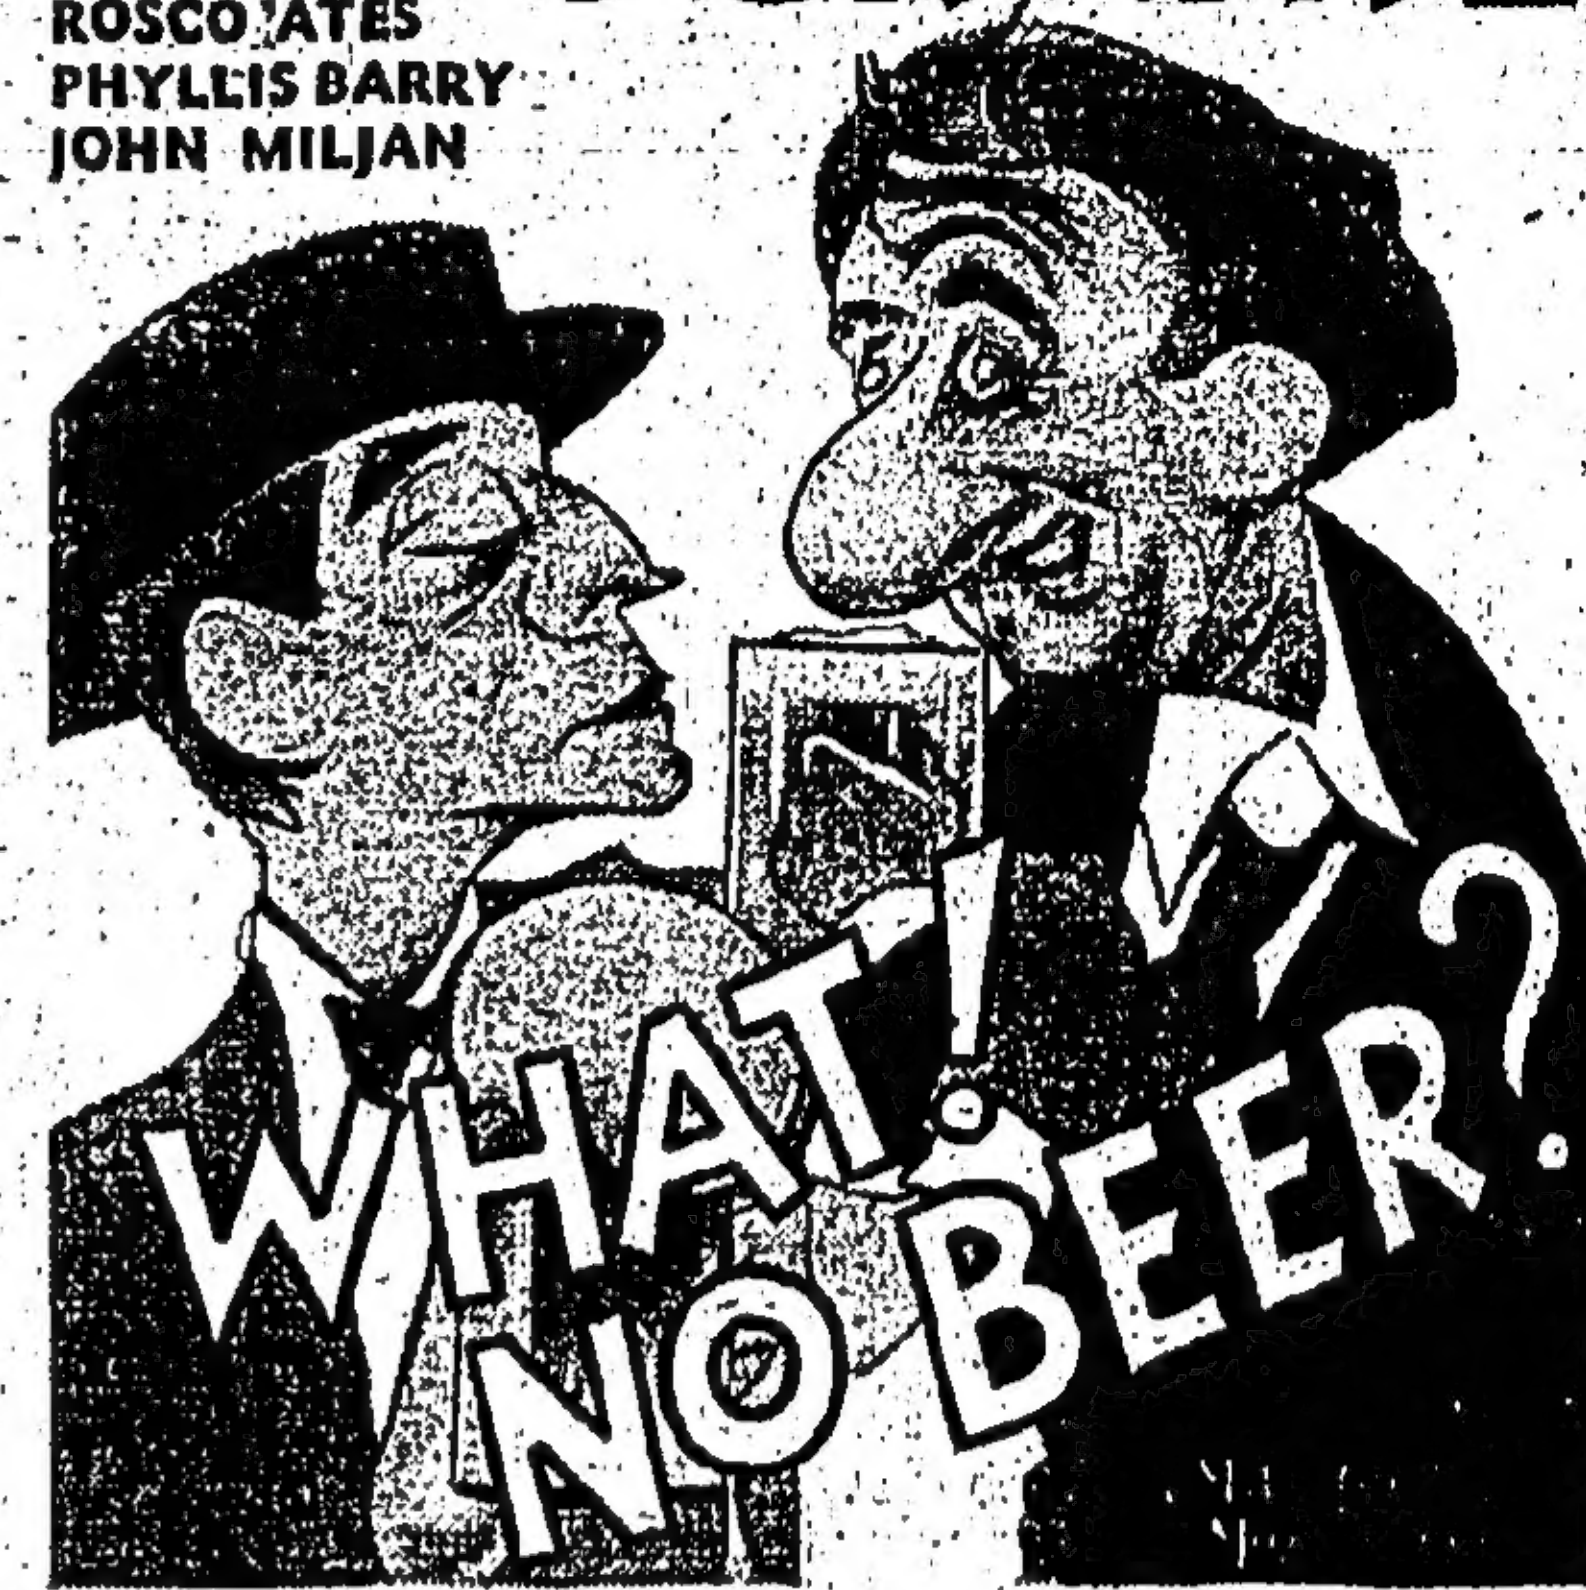

Defendants denied the charge and stated that they were only passing the station, but after hearing the evidence, his Worship convicted them all. A fine of $5 was imposed on each.
